Police change for 21st Century

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Keeping up with the times and the growth of the Village of Antioch, the new police station is geared to propel the department into the 21st century.

"The new facility is planned with the future in mind," said Charlie R. Watkins, Antioch police chief.

"In these days and times, the courts and the community are putting a lot of responsibility and expectations on the police departments," Watkins explained. "We want to promote more professionalism in our department. A professional police department plays an important role in the safety of the public which they serve."

Totalling approximately 13,000 square feet at a cost of $1.6 million, police department officials are hopeful to be in their new surroundings sometime in mid-November.

Barring any weather or other delays, the construction schedule has the building "under roof" within six to eight weeks. The new police station will be located just east of the existing downtown fire station.

"We, at the police department, are very excited about this," Watkins said. "We're very happy that the citizens of the Village of Antioch, mayor, trustees and village administration paved the way for this new building through the referendum."

"The new building will allow us to serve citizens in a much more convenient way and will enable us to be more open with them," Watkins said. "It's not just a police department. We plan to make the citizenship a part of it, too."

The two-story building will house police administration, and shift commanders and investigations on the upper level. The lower level will house the operational facilities, garage, lock-up, booking room and holding room.

Holding cells will include a juvenile detention room, three male cells and one female cell, totaling five cell areas plus the holding area.

"We'll have a cell which is strictly for a female," Watkins said. "We've never had that before."

Antioch serves as an overnight holding center for neighboring Lindenhurst and Lake Villa police departments.

When either of those departments has someone who needs to be held until they can be transported to the Lake County Jail in Waukegan, the prisoner is brought to Antioch. Neither of the other departments have adequate facilities meeting legal requirements to keep prisoners overnight.

"The domestic violence laws changed as of January, 1999," explained Watkins. "If a person is involved in any act of domestic violence, there is no bond and they must appear before a judge."

During 1998, Antioch handled 210 prisoners. With the law change, combined with growth of all three communities, the demand on Antioch's holding cells is expected to continue to increase.

"Now, when we get full, we have to pay overtime to run prisoners to Waukegan and admit them to Lake County Jail," Watkins said.

Separate locker rooms for male and female officers will be included, something which the current station

Metra expansion promising

May add more 'rush hour' trains

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Metra is continuing to explore the expansion of the current train station in Antioch.

Following meetings with Metra and State of Illinois officials, Mayor Marilyn Shineflug and Village Administrator Tim Wells were positive with on-going railroad improvement plans which include the Antioch area and its station.

"Metra will help with the construction costs," Wells said, explaining it would be a joint project with the state and village as well. "We're at the 2010 plan now. To get to 2020, we need to have 250 additional spaces."

Metra is in the midst of conducting a second environment impact survey for Antioch. Metra officials have already obtained some information from village officials which is being incorporated into the study.

More "rush hour" service, reverse commuters and increased non-rush hour service are among the items Metra is addressing.

Presently, there are five round trip trains running, counted as ten by Metra because of the total number of trips made.

Future plans call for a total of 11 trains making 22 trips daily.

Based on rider projections, Metra is looking at expanding the existing station parking area by an additional 250 spaces.

Governor George Ryan has pledged some of the funding needed for the installation of "double-tracking" which is necessary before some of the added trains and service could be implemented.

"It was all good news," concluded Wells, with Shineflug concurring. "It was a very upbeat meeting."

Pesky mosquitoes taking bite out of holiday fun

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Residents celebrating their Fourth of July weekend may find some unwelcome guests showing up for their backyard barbecues and family picnics.

With large pools of standing water, northeastern Illinois residents can expect a large "mosquito invasion," according to Clarke Environmental Mosquito Management Inc., a company which specializes in mosquito control. The mosquito problems were expected to start the weekend of June 25 and to continue through the July 4 holiday weekend.

A combination of rainfall and warm temperatures set the stage for the floodwater mosquito (aedes vexans) to begin hatching in large numbers, according to George Balis, an entomologist for Clarke.

"They are coming out right now," Balis said.

Heavy rainfalls about two weeks ago dropped between 6 and 7 inches in some areas of western Lake County. The rains created a fertile breeding ground for the mosquitoes, which lay their eggs in pools of standing water.

"There was an unusual amount of rainfall and that will lead to standing water, particularly in those areas where there is not mosquito control," Balis said.

Clarke provides mosquito control for a number of Lake County municipalities, including Grayslake, Avon Township, Gurnee, Round Lake, Hainesville, Mundelein, Waukegan and North Chicago. Libertyville Township has just implemented a larval control program.

Rotary remembers past, looks at future

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Rotary Club is heading into a new year, but not without remembering its roots.

While recognizing those who will lead the community service based organization into the new millennium, club members recall the past membership which took the leadership in the summer of 1968 to form the group.

Officers for 1999-2000 are Matt Tabar, president; Larry Bersie, president elect; Colleen Osmond, secretary; and Dr. Dennis Hockney, treasurer.

Committee chairman will be Kevin Schoudel, club service; Roger Sorenson, community service; Rick Kuehn, international service; Sue Ryan, vocational service; Ted Axton, foundation; Stan Livermore, scholarships; Linda Pedersen, historian; Ralph Antonelli, funding; and Bob Schneider, programs.

All were sworn in at the club's annual installation dinner June 24.

In looking back, Pedersen notes she has good records beginning in 1987. Axton, who served as president in 1987-88, began a more detailed records keeping process which has continued to this day.

"We first started meeting when the Richmond club tried to put an Antioch club together," Vern Thelen of Thelen Sand & Gravel, one of the charter members, recalled. "We only had three or four people Antioch people when we met at the Lorenze Country House Restaurant."

"For a long time we were at seven-eight people, then we went up to 15," Thelen said, noting the current 40-45 members. "Then everybody jumped in."

In the first years, Thelen recalled the club only able to raise $200-$300. Since then, the membership has grown along with the money raised and the community organizations helped.

At the club's June 17 meeting, Joe and Ethel Pechulis, a self-employed supplier of janitorial supplies in the 1960's when he was a charter member, was in attendance. Pechulis and his wife now own Harbor Club, which is scheduled to host a future Rotary luncheon meeting.

Charter officers were Vincent J. Patla Jr, president; Owen Duffy, vice president; Mike Ano, secretary; Cliff Vanderwerker, treasurer; Kenneth Jandula, sergeant-at-arms.

Board of directors consisted of the four officers with the exception of the sergeant-at-arms, plus Travlyn J. Pottenger, William Mendrala and Thelen.

"I was at one of those first meetings," Thelen reminisced. "They asked if anyone was interested in starting an Antioch club. I got caught up in it and I've been coming ever since."

"It's been a lot of fun," Thelen added. "We've accomplished a lot."

Thelen headed up the first four years of the annual auction, while continues as a Rotary tradition to this day. The auction has served as a major fundraiser for the organization.

In comparison to the few hundred dollars which the club had to work with in the early days, Antioch has given out almost a half million dollars since 1987 alone.

Annually, several thousand are given to various community projects such as the Bill Brook Memorial Park, food baskets, international projects, pollo plus, scholarships, Paul Harris Fellowship program, and youth exchange students.

Pedersen is asking anyone who may have any kind of information regarding the Rotary club, particularly in the years 1968-86, to look through their attics, garages, storage trunks and shoe boxes.

"We're trying to get as much information on our past as possible," Pedersen explained. "We are pleased we are able to recognize charter members, like Vern, Joe and his wife, Ethel. Without them, we would not have a club nor would the community be benefiting from the work we're able to do."

Persons with club information are asked to contact Pedersen at 838-6200.

Pedersen is also hoping to update the list of inbound exchange students, especially for years 1994-present; Rotarian host parents and the number of students they have hosted; non-Rotarian host parents and the number of students they hosted; and outbound exchange students prior to 1981 and since 1990.

Organizations which have received contributions from the club prior to 1987 are also being sought so as to compile an accurate list of how much money the Rotary club has contributed to the community.

Antioch High school seeks to improve its bond rating

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Sometimes an "A" rating is not quite good enough.

Antioch Community High School District 117 Board of Education found that out in a report from Bill Ahlers, business manager.

"I've had Moody's look at the various factors and come up with a bond rating critique," explained Ahlers. "It's unofficial, but they came up with an A-3. Anything in the A category is good, but municipal bond issuers who have anything other than A-1, are often bypassed by a lot of buyers."

"We would probably end up buying bond insurance to get up to an A-1 rating," Ahlers said.

"With the district's long range plans, there is a distinct possibility that the district will go for a referendum within the next three to five years to build a new school," Ahlers noted, necessitating the bond rating review.

In discussions with Moody's, Ahlers was able to narrow down factors which prevent the district from having an A-1 rating at this time.

Among those is the fact that a lot of the district's financial reserves are "dedicated," meaning the funds must be used for a specific item or project.

One example of those funds is developer impact fees. These fees, paid by builders who are constructing homes within the district, are designated for school building improvements or construction.

The second major concern for Moody's is the district's negative balance in its educational fund.

"We can abate some of the working cash fund into the educational fund," explained Ahlers, noting it has always operated "in the red" in the educational fund, at least for the 12 years he has been with the district.

Illinois is unique in it is the only state which has a "working cash" line item included in public entity budgets.

By moving some of the funds from working cash into the educational fund, at least on paper, it would provide the district with "better window dressing" to the outside financial world.

It would be a similar procedure to interfund loans, which the district uses annually to cover certain expenses or obtain supplies when funds may not be directly available.

"It's basically a paper transaction," explained Dr. Dennis Hockney, superintendent. "It makes a difference for our bond rating, but doesn't affect how we were operating."

In other financial related items, the board approved obtaining a building permit for the science wing renovation project. Indiana Insurance Company was awarded the contract for the district's property casualty and workman's compensation insurance.

The district agreed to purchase a used pickup from Raymond Chevrolet-Oldsmobile of Antioch, using the old 1982 district van as a trade in.

The board was updated on construction projects at the Main Street building.

The old section of the building has been vacated and asbestos abated, with demolition having begun June 22. Interior demolition of other sections of the school is making "good progress," according to Hockney.

"Generally, people have been very tolerant, optimistic and very positive," Hockney said, regarding the staff reactions to the disruptions created by the work. "I hope they continue to be that tolerant, especially when they come back in the fall when some construction will still be continuing."

The board authorized an estimated additional $25,000 to be spent in the cafeteria area. The added expense is coming about due to unanticipated difficulties in duct work and other hidden items within the walls and ceilings.

In the end, the cafeteria will be designed to handle 2,300 students over a three hour time span. The school is being designed to accommodate 1,800-2,000 students "comfortably."

The next school board meeting is scheduled for Thursday, July 8 at the Main Street high school building. Time and exact location will be announced, with a tour of the construction areas to be included on the agenda.

Celebrate safe Independence Day

Hard to believe it's already the Fourth of July. Where's summer going? Make sure to look into your own backyard for some great summer time activities. Antioch hosts one of the biggest celebrations in the county this weekend.

From the run in the morning to the great concert and fireworks to close out the evening, fun for all ages is planned. The greatest thing about it is that it is all oriented to the family and, for the most part, free!

Speaking of the Independence Day Celebration, included in the many parade entries is The Sioux Indian Guides Federation. Based in Vernon Hills, the federation will be participating in numerous parades this summer, 28 in all!

Thanks to the generous donation of Walgreen's Corporate Office, the guides are being provided with plenty of candy to be distributed along the many routes to the thousands of youngsters who the guides will greet.

Guides interested in participating in the Antioch parade should contact Rick Gower at 548-2027.

"We're out of space," Watkins admitted, referring to the old station. "We're now at 23 officers, including the three we just hired. Some of our officers don't even have a locker."

"Our endeavor is to hire a more professional and dedicated employee," said Watkins. "Professionalism is self-breeding. We know the new building is on the same tract as what we're trying to accomplish for our citizens."

"Safety of the building is extremely important, not only for the officers, but the prisoners and public, as well," Watkins said. "The current building was constructed in the late 1960's when we had six officers. Now, we have to walk prisoners through the police administration department."

"The new building will be set up citizen friendly," Watkins explained. "When people have problems and come to us, currently they have to come into one area with one entrance."

A 3-point indoor pistol firing range will be "roughed in" with completion expected within two years due to financial constraints.

Due to legal requirements placed upon law enforcement agencies by the courts, a greater emphasis is being placed upon "maintaining the integrity of evidence." As a result, a larger evidence storage area is planned.

"We had to have more evidence storage area to hold and maintain the chain of evidence and ensure that it's properly handled," Watkins said.

The new station will include an elevator and be totally Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) compliant.

"There's been a lot of hard work by a lot of people going into this project already," Watkins said. "There's still a lot more work to do. We're looking forward to the new building and we're ready to move in right now."

Antioch's new fire station, being constructed on Deep Lake Road just north of Depot Street,

MOSQUITOES: Biting big mosquito invasions into populated areas through a series of 187 light traps located throughout northeastern Illinois. The traps alert Clarke of invading mosquito populations when annoyance levels are reached—30 mosquitoes per trap, per night.

Throughout the mosquito season, Clarke locates, inspects and treats breeding sites with larvicides, by both air and ground, to minimize the development of adult mosquitoes and their spread into populated areas.

Clarke is taking extra steps to deal with "the large brood of mosquitoes" that are expected, including controlled spraying in certain areas, according to Balis. "We will be doing some additional control during these peak periods," he said.

Bob Tarter, a spokesman for the Lake County Health Department, said "whenever you have periods of heavy rainfall, you can expect a large hatch of mosquitoes."

Generally, he said the mosquito larvae begin to hatch between seven to 10 days after a heavy rain, in areas that have standing water.

"Areas that are flooded are likely to produce additional mosquitoes," Tarter said.

The health department monitors mosquito populations for disease control purposes. Mosquitoes are known carriers of several diseases such as yellow fever, malaria and encephalitis.

St. Louis encephalitis is one of the diseases most commonly carried by mosquitoes in this area of the country. In 1975, there was an outbreak of the disease, with 581 reported cases of St. Louis encephalitis and 47 deaths.

Tarter said fortunately as of yet, there have been no signs of the disease this year.

There are several things residents can do to help keep the mosquito population down, according to Tarter. Empty containers, such as children's swimming pools, open barbecue grills, or old cans and buckets, can hold standing water and provide an excellent breeding for mosquitoes.

Certain types of insect repellent with the agent DEET can provide residents with some protection against mosquitoes, according to Tarter.

Mosquitoes also tend to be more prevalent during certain times of the day, he said:

"We find most pesky mosquitoes are found at the periods of dawn and dusk so staying indoors during those periods is one way to avoid getting bitten," he said.

Beware of bogus fund solicitors

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Beware of outside appearances which look innocent.

That was the warning being issued by Antioch Police Department officials to business owners in the Antioch area.

Two young girls, ages 11 and 12, were apprehended the evening of June 24 after having been approaching business owners soliciting funds for a bogus computer program for St. Peter's Catholic School in Antioch.

Tipped by a business owner who noticed the professional appearing letter the girls had was not on letterhead from St. Peter's, police were contacted. The girls had a professionally appearing poster with them as well.

Investigation proved there is no fundraiser underway for a computer program at St. Peter's.

Officer Ron Nauman of the Antioch Police Department informed business owners of the scam at a morning meeting of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

The identity of the girls was obtained, including names, according to Nauman.

Nauman said the parents of the girls agreed to return money which the girls had already obtained.

As of June 29, some Antioch Township businesses which were victimized had already received restitution, according to Nauman. None of the businesses in town, although approached, had actually given money to the girls.

Anyone having been approached by these girls, or if they did give them any "donations," should contact the Antioch Police Department.

Antioch police welcome trio

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Keeping with its movement to professionalism and expansion, the Antioch Police Department is getting three new officers.

Michael Rullman, Aron Fendel and Geoffrey Guttschow have been sworn in by the village officials.

All three are attending the state police academy in Springfield with an expected graduation date of Sept. 20.

The actual force will increase by one, according to Chief Charlie Watkins.

One will be taking a spot vacated by the school program officer who will be moving from a position within the regular force to an assignment within the schools.

Another one is funded by a federal grant from the COPS community policing program.

The third will fill a vacancy on the force.

Antioch Fire Department District One has added four probationary firefighters.

Derek Rosseau, Robert Moore, Ben Carter and Mike Korczyk have been added to the membership roster by Fire Chief Dennis Volling.

Police cellar to house fitness area

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Police Association has received a five-year lease with a five-year option for the basement space below the existing police station.

The village board agreed to the lease, which allows the police officers to maintain their fitness facility which has been located there for years.

The new police station, due to some cost constraints, does not contain space for the workout area.

The proximity of the old station to the new allows officers to conveniently stop by and use the exercise area.

The association asked for a longer lease to allow them to continue to make improvements and obtain some additional equipment.

"It's a family project," explained Village Manager Tim Wells, regarding the reconstruction. "The wives are doing some of the painting and wall papering. Even some of the children are helping. The officers are sticking to electrical wiring and other things."

"The lease gives the association some protection so they can continue to make improvements," Wells said.

Having the facility available is seen as a positive addition to moral and also to the physical conditioning of the officers.

Firm extends contract for treatment plant

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

The operating staff of the Antioch Wastewater Treatment Plant will continue under the control of an outside firm, at least for the next five years.

Following the recommendation of Village Manager Tim Wells, the village board approved staying with Clark Dietz, Inc. providing professional services with the exclusive responsibility for running of the plant.

Dietz oversaw the facility for the past two years, resulting in financial savings to the village and creating an atmosphere at the facility which "is as different as night and day," according to Wells.

"We've already saved $20,000-$25,000 by having Dietz do it instead of our own people," Wells explained. "There's been a significant improvement."

In looking at salaries, benefits, and additional costs incurred by not having actual engineers hired by the village overseeing the plant, Wells estimates the savings will be in the neighborhood of $175,000-$200,000 over the life of the new contract.

Incorporating a computer automation system may end up resulting in additional savings to the village in the near future.

"There are no village employees at the plant and they have no reason to be there," stated Wells.

"This is good for both parties," Wells said of the long term agreement. "It gives us, the village, vision regarding costs so we can budget. It helps them because they can work on capital improvements knowing they'll be there to reap the benefits."

This year, already budgeted for a higher amount, Wells noted Dietz is saving the village an estimated $40,000 in costs of chemical supplies.

With some of the savings, Wells is having Dietz work on an overall plan for the treatment facility and its future. The report is expected to be completed within six months.

"From our standpoint, it's a plus, plus," added Wells.

New Parade Route

Antioch Community High School will run its 1999 homecoming parade in reverse of the traditional route. The village board approved a route change starting on the east side of the Main Street building, going north on Skidmore Street to Orchard Avenue, west on Orchard to Main Street, south on Main back to the high school. This route is anticipated to be in effect just for 1999 due to construction.

Public Hearing

The 1999 Village of Antioch fiscal year appropriations will be aired at a public hearing at 7 p.m. Monday, July 19 at the village hall.

Green Town

Antioch received a "green" bill of health from Commonwealth Edison Company in its annual report on electrical use within the village. Basically, Mayor Mairilyn Shineflue explained, the status is due to the village not having any unresolved liability issues related to electrical related matters.

Okay Buy Down

Steve Sodman, owner of property at 386-388-390 Lake Street, received approval of a "buy-down" loan from the Antioch Village Board. The approval allows Sodman to obtain funds at a reduced rate which he intends to use to refurbish the properties located in the downtown area.

A Visit to Hawaii Must Include Pearl Harbor

by JIM WARNKEN,
President, North Star Travel, Inc.

December 7, 1941 is a date forever etched in the minds of most Americans. At one minute before 8 a.m., a battle began which left 3,581 Americans dead or wounded and sent six of our country's mightiest ships to the bottom of Pearl Harbor.

One of those ships, the USS Arizona, became the final resting place for 1,100 of her crew.

A memorial has been built across the Arizona to honor those still entombed in the sunken hull below. The shrine is visited by survivors of the battle marking the U.S. entry into World War II.

If you are planning a trip to Hawaii, you too may wish to visit the Arizona Memorial. You will find many tours offering such a visit. However, the only boat allowed to dock at the memorial is operated by the Navy. That shuttle, as well as entrance to the memorial and the visitor center, is free.

If you have a rented car, take Rte. 99 to the entrance to Pearl Harbor along Rte. 99 about a mile south of Aloha Stadium. The parking area for the Arizona Memorial boat shuttle is well marked.

You can also take "The Bus" (literally the name of Hawaii's transit system) numbers 50, 51, and 52 from the Ala Moana Shopping Center to within walking distance of the entrance. A more convenient alternative for getting to the shuttle dock is Arizona Memorial Shuttle Bus, a private operation which will pick you up at your hotel and take you to the dock for $2.50 one way. Reservations are needed. Call them in Honolulu at 926-4747. No reservation is required for the return trip. Just get your ticket from Gloria, the lady under the green umbrella in the parking lot.

The memorial is open daily, except Monday, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., though I would suggest getting there no later than 9:30 a.m. to avoid the long wait. The shuttle boats won't sail if the waves are too rough, so call ahead. In Honolulu call 422-0561.

A patriotic moment in the Great White North

In my abundance of years here on God's green earth I have had the occasion to travel to various parts of North America. Seeing as almost all my in-laws are Canadian, I have had many opportunities to travel to the Great White North: it's a nice place for in-laws to live. And as a very pregnant tourist I had the chance to travel to Mexico.

As I was walking amongst the street peddlers with various members of my family, I made each and every one of them promise to please, oh please, drag me, by my hair if necessary, back over the border into America in the event that I should happen to go into labor during our stay. I was relieved to finish our visit before my water broke.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

As Americans, most of us under appreciate what we have here in this country where we live. It is a pretty great place. Fortunately we have never experienced a war being fought in our own back yard so we have no conception of what it takes to survive in a war-torn country.

All we have are the tales passed down by our parents, along with the starving children stories, to make us eat all the food on our plates. But still we are compelled to celebrate this weekend, even if we forgot exactly what it is we are blowing our fingers off for in our attempt to celebrate the day.

Independence Day has kind of lost its patriotic meaning over the years. Once it was revered as a claim to our independence from Great Britain but somewhere along the line it became just a three day weekend in July to have a cookout and shoot off fireworks—not exactly the intent our forefathers had when creating the line “bombs bursting in air” from our practically unsingable National Anthem.

With the atrocities of current events screaming at us from the morning newspapers and evening news perhaps we should all take a few extra moments this year and pay tribute to this great country we live in. Sing the National Anthem, wear red, white and blue, but please, oh please, no M-100s after 10 p.m. And so goes another “Jingle from Pringle.”

Readers with information for “Jingle from Pringle” should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Windmill Creek OK to resume building Village removes stop work order

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Windmill Creek, developers of Ryland Homes, has been given the OK by village officials to resume work in that Antioch subdivision.

A stop work order had been issued by the village on June 4 following concerns and numerous warnings from both the village and Stormwater Management Commission regarding erosion issues.

Bob Silhan, village director of planning, zoning and building, cited “some erosion control items which, when installed, we not done adequately.”

Due to the stoppage being caused by erosion control issues, state law required a public hearing which was held June 10 by the village planning and zoning board.

A partial lift on the work ban was granted, allowing utility companies to continue with their scheduled plans. In addition, erosion control related items were able to continue.

Silhan granted a final release June 15.

Due to concerns raised at the hearing, the matter was continued until August 19 with plans for an update at that time.

“The board was concerned with ongoing maintenance,” explained Silhan. “It also needs to be monitored after every rainstorm to make sure the erosion prevention steps taken are working adequately.”

Ongoing meetings between Silhan and Ryland officials will continue, mainly involving occupancy and other construction related issues which might come up.

For the most part, Silhan is optimistic the measures previously taken by Ryland will handle any further erosion issues.

Plenty of racing to go around

NASCAR is coming to The Milwaukee Mile July 2-4 and will feature the Craftsman Truck Series Friday with their race Saturday afternoon, while the Busch Grand National Series comes in Saturday with their race taking place on Sunday afternoon. This writer will be doing the track announcing for the weekend. Stop by the infield "tower" and say hi.

Yours truly will be going through a sprint car driving school at Wilmot Speedway on Wednesday evening, July 7. The school, based in Elkhart Lake, Wis., will be conducted by Randy Sippel, a sprint car racing veteran, and also feature seven-time IRA and Wilmot Champion Joe Roe as well as five-time champion Gib Wiser as instructors.

Anyone interested in the driving school, which is open to males and females, should contact Sippel at (920) 876-3166.

Speaking of Sippel racing, I wish to thank Randy for allowing me to actually race a mini-sprint June 25, at the Calumet County Fairgrounds Speedway in Chilton, Wis.

Look for more about my race experience in future columns. I will say, I didn't finish first, I didn't finish last (6th in the semi-feature) and the car went back into the trailer the same way it came out.

Speaking of mini-sprints, congratulations to Tom Bartz, past mini-sprint champion, for a runner-up finish in the Cyclo Clean Sweep Challenge for CSR class as part of Kohler June Sprints at Road America in Elkhart Lake, Wis. this past weekend.

In Group two, held June 26, Harry Manning of Racine, sponsored by Gurnee's Rosen Mazda, scored a win in Showroom Stock B-Class.

Tom Mayerhofer of Round Lake placed 31st overall and 21st in the Formula Vee class, which drew 44 finishers and over 50 total entries.

James Marinangel, 1993 National Champion, a 53-year-old banker from McHenry, earned an impressive victory in the Auto Meter Spec Racer Ford class on Sunday afternoon out of 61 starters.

Other area finishers in that class were: Webb Bassick of Lake Forest eighth; Chris Bennett, McHenry, 11th; Alan Andrea, Lake Forest, 12th; Bob Shineflug of Antioch, 37th; John Stermer of Lake Barrington, 47th; and, Ian James of Barrington Hills, 53rd.

In the H-Production Class, John Salisbury of Gurnee finished 18th overall in the sixth race and second in class, while Mundelein's Michael Hart, competing in F-Production in the same race, failed to finish, placing 40th overall.

In the weekend's final event, co-sponsored by McHenry's R.A. Adam's Enterprises of McHenry, Mundelein's Chris Pedersen was sixth overall and in the Grand Touring 1 class. Other finishers included: Barrington Hill's Karl Schiffmayer 13th; Mundelein's Chip Boatright 14th; Lake Forest's Rick Mancuso 30th overall, 18th in GT1; and, McHenry's Jill Peters failed to finish, placing 22nd in GT1.

At Wilmot Speedway June 26, Star Trac pointleader Antioch's Tommy Sexton, who won the fourth heat to qualify, placed second in the red-checkered sprint car feature, with Kenosha's Jeff Ferkin taking the checkered flag. Gurnee's Tony Engels finished seventh, while Fox Lake's Paul Ptasienski, who flipped on the white flag lap, placed 18th, and Park City's Kirk Fehrman collected a 19th place finish.

Pointleader Rob Olson of Lake Villa finished second to teammate Ed Devall of Waukegan in the 20-lap IMCA modified feature.

Other area finishers included: Dr. Ken Johnson, D.D.S., of Antioch Dental Center finished third; Jim Morrison fourth; John Dost fifth; and, Scott Kuxhouse eighth. All are natives of Antioch. Furthermore, Lake Villa's Jay Crichton earned seventh place; Ingleside's Jerry Pitts Jr., ninth; McHenry's Bob Tellefsen 10th; Wilmot's Warren Meyer 13th; Gurnee's Ray Olson 14th; Johnsburn's Carl Geier 15th; and, Wild-wood's Chuck Ostergaard was 17th. Heat wins went to Morrison, C. Ostergaard and Rob Olson.

In Sunday Funday program June 27, the husband-wife team of Lori and Tim Anderson of Trevor won the Cruiser team-racing feature. "Dr. Tooth" Ken Johnson was also a winner, capturing the mini-modified season opening main event, while Milwaukee's Johnny Fahl won in the IMCA hobby stocks.

Wilmot hosts "Al Winker Night" Saturday, July 3, part of the Independence Day Holiday Festival featuring Star Trac 410 Outlaw sprints and IMCA modifieds at 7:30 p.m.

At Lake Geneva Raceway June 26, Shane Bishop of Pell Lake won the super stock feature, while Lake-land area finishers included: McHenry's Denny Norton Jr. second; pointleader Zac Deeringer of Wonder Lake third; McHenry's Adam Regnier, fourth; Antioch's Tom Maki fifth; and, Wauconda's Jim Hughes eighth.

Brad Durbin of Lyons, Wis. won the super late model feature, while Park City's Danny Darnell finished fourth, McHenry's Joe Fisher seventh, Round Lake's Larry Surleta ninth, and, Grayslake's Mike Simon 10th place. Johnsburn's Bob Moeller also collected a victory in the semi-feature.

Lake Geneva hosts its regular program of super late models, super stocks, sport trucks and Rascal Outlaw Sprints at 7:30 p.m. Friday, July 2.

The touring NASCAR REMAX Challenge Series for late models comes in Saturday, July 3, for the Al Schill Jr. Memorial Feature. Schill's father, Al Sr., the current pointleader of Lake Geneva's super late models, will be competing. He will be driving the same car his late son drove at Rockford Speedway in March the day before he passed away.

Blaze defeats Rockford 5-3

Payback time was in order when the Lindenhurst Boy's U-9 travel team went to Rockford to take on the Raptors. Last fall, the only loss for the Blaze was a heart-breaking 3-2 defeat to the Raptors, spoiling a perfect season. Well, the Blaze avenged that loss with a 5-3 victory last week. The win kept them in a first-place tie entering the last week of play.

The Blaze had a tough time early as the Raptors had the ball the majority of the time and had five corner kicks in the first five minutes. However, as the game progressed, the Blaze seemed to wear down the Raptors and eventually got on the scoreboard with a goal by Connor O'Keefe on a pass from Ethan Hahn. The second quarter was more of the Blaze dominating play as the defense of Brian Mooney, Matt Laine, Brian Hook and Hahn gave the Raptors only one shot at goal. The Blaze got their second goal when Kurt Houghton passed to Kyle Sytsma who found the left-hand corner of the goal inviting as he rifled a shot past the Raptor Goalie to give the Blaze a 2-0 lead at the half.

After the half, the Blaze came out firing and on a beautiful passing combination of Andrew Stein to Colin O'Malley to Sytsma resulted into a commanding 3-0 lead for the visitors from Lindenhurst. The Raptors quickly answered back with a goal of their own two minutes later and things did not look so well as the Raptors were awarded a penalty kick moments later but goalie Tommy Sewart was up to the task and stopped the shot.

In the fourth quarter, the Raptors put a scare into the Blaze as they cut the lead to 3-2 and the Blaze could not afford a tie. With the Raptors applying pressure, Kurt Houghton went down the right sideline and crossed a pass that deflected off the Raptor's goalie to Brian Hook who half-volleyed it in for a 4-2 lead. It was like an instant replay a minute later as Houghton again crossed a pass on the right side to Hook who scored to give the Blaze a 5-2 lead. The Raptors scored a goal in the closing minute but the Blaze had prevailed. The goal-keeping of Mat Laine, Andrew Stein, and Tommy Sewart was outstanding all day and the Blaze improved their record to 7-1 for the regular season and 10-1 overall.

Schwan's USA Cup to feature top Illinois youth teams

The state of Illinois will feature several soccer teams at the 15th annual Schwan's USA CUP international youth soccer tournament on July 11 to 17.

Among the girls teams which will be competing are the Rockford based Siren FC, a under 17 year old squad and the Libertyville Lasers, a under 15 year old classification team. Among the boys teams that will be competing are the Lindenhurst Turbos (under 16) and the Rockford based RUSC Falcons (under 12).

These teams will be competing in the Schwan's USA CUP, a tournament that features close to 800 boys and girls teams from 21 countries and 34 states. The festival like atmosphere at the 54-field National Sports Center complex in Blaine, Minn. will play host to nearly 14,000 athletes from across the world.

Schwan's USA CUP takes place at the National Sports Center, one of the most unique sports complexes in the country. Located on the outskirts of Minneapolis/St. Paul, the facility boasts 54 soccer fields, a 13,000 seat track and field/soccer stadium, cycling velodrome, indoor arena with 200-meter track, Olympic weightlifting room and dormitory with full kitchen service. The four ice-sheet Schwan's Super Rink added to the stature of the facility with its opening last fall. The National Sports Center plays host to many national and international events annually while also providing programs and services for the local sporting community.

Saturn Coupes provide quieter ride in 1999

Refined powertrain performance, interior refinements and new wheel selections highlight the enhancements to the Saturn SC1 and SC2 models for 1999.

With the refinements in the power module, consumers will notice decreased sound levels both inside and outside the vehicles that enhance the driving and ownership experiences... hallmarks of Saturn's entire product lineup.

Power Modules

Both variants of the 1.9-liter engine four cylinder engine (single overhead camshaft and dual overhead camshaft) continue to provide high levels of durability, performance and economy — due in part to the exacting standards at Saturn's manufacturing complex.

The unique lost foam casting process allows for utilization of the same cylinder block and crankshaft for both the SOHC and DOHC engines. The uniformity of the components contribute to improved quality while at the same time reducing build complexity and in-plant machining requirements.

Over the years, both the SOHC and DOHC have benefited from numerous acoustical improvements and the modification of components for both power modules. In 1999 further enhances Saturn's reputation as an industry leader when measured against direct competitors.

Among the hardware changes to both 1.9 engine variants is introduction of a new eight-counterweight crankshaft (replacing the previous four-counterweight design), new lighter-weight aluminum alloy pistons, longer connecting rods cast from powdered metal and new 8mm pitch timing chain. Noise associated with the timing chain also has been addressed with a new composite cam cover.

SC2 COUPES: Provide quiet ride

Additionally, specific changes to the DOHC include a new roller follower hydraulic valve train with needle bearing rocker arms that contribute to lower operating friction, mass reduction and improved fuel efficiency.

All 1999 models also continue to benefit from a new exhaust system introduced midway through the '98 model year. With its large volume muffler and changes to the resonator, down-pipe and flex joint, mid-range frequency noise peaks are substantially reduced during most driving conditions.

In states that require Low Emission Vehicle (LEV) levels be met, an Air Injection Reaction (A.I.R.) system is now provided, along with a specific exhaust manifold and a warm-up converter.

Equipped with sequential port fuel injection, the 16-valve, 1.9-liter DOHC produces 124 horsepower at 5600 rpm. The relatively flat torque curve peaks at 122 lb. ft. of torque at 4800 rpm. Standard equipment on the SC2 includes a close ratio five-speed manual gear box with a four-speed electronically controlled automatic available. SC2s equipped with the manual gearbox accelerate from 0 to 60 in under nine seconds. Automatic-equipped cars require just 9.6 seconds.

Estimated EPA figures for the SC2 are 27/38 mpg for the manual in city/highway driving (compared to 26/36 last year) and 25/35 for the automatic (24/34 in 1998).

The eight-valve, single overhead camshaft version receives a revised profile camshaft that contributes to reduce idle vibration and helps controls undersized false combustion knock.

The SC1 provides spirited performance, with 100 horsepower at 5000 rpm and 114 lb. ft. of torque at 2400 rpm. Equipped with the standard five-speed manual transmission, 0 to 60 is accomplished in 10.5 seconds while delivering an estimated EPA fuel economy rating of 29/40 mpg in city/highway driving (compared to 28/39 last year). When fitted with the four-speed automatic, 0 to 60 is accomplished in 11.5 seconds with EPA ratings of 27/37 in city/highway driving (the same as last year).

Exterior

The contemporary styling of both coupe models feature smooth, clean surfaces with all side panels constructed of polymer materials. The use of the panels, which also includes both front and rear fascias, allows for a high level of dent resistance and will not corrode.

The side panels can be easily unbolted for service to facilitate easier repair and eliminate the need of complete disassembly of interior panels and related hardware. Steel panels are used for the horizontal hood, roof and upper deck lid.

Continually rated as among the safest vehicles in the small car segment, all Saturn models include Daytime Running Lamps for increased visibility of the vehicle by others during daylight hours. For additional lighting during inclement weather, foglamps are standard for SC2 models.

Body color fascias are found on both coupe models and both the front and rear bumper system are designed to withstand 5 mph impacts with no visible damage. The front bumper system includes an aluminum bar coupled with a foam energy absorbing design.

A low liftover decklid provides easy unloading and loading of packages with trunk volume of 11.4 cubic feet. The short decklid also is designed to minimize water runoff into the trunk. For additional storage capacity, a removable roof rack is available.

Generation X to account for one-third of new-vehicle purchases by 2005

Annual new-vehicle purchases by Generation X consumers, born from 1965 to 1977, will represent from one-quarter to one-third of the new-vehicle buying population by 2005, according to the J.D. Power and Associates 1999 Generation X Market Assessment™.

"The Generation X market is highly fragmented, making it a difficult market for automotive manufacturers to target," said Sara Wong Hilton, manager of market analysis at J.D. Power.

"Vehicle manufacturers must strategically market their products to this group before Generation X consumers move into their peak buying years. To attract these customers, it is critical for automotive manufacturers to understand the diverse interests of the Generation X market," Hilton said.

The report shows that many Generation X consumers purchase compact and premium-midsize vehicles, with the Honda Civic being the largest selling model purchased. Light trucks and compact SUVs also have become favorites among many Generation X buyers, especially those who lease vehicles. The most popular models leased by Generation X consumers are the Ford F-Series, followed closely by the Ford Explorer.

"Nearly 40 percent of Generation X consumers choose to lease rather than purchase their vehicles," Hilton said. "One of the reasons for this trend is that leasing allows buyers to drive higher-priced vehicles than is otherwise possible due to income constraints."

According to the report, many older

Generation X consumers resemble Baby Boomers in their buying habits despite having more limited financial resources. Baby Boomers tend to migrate from premium-midsize vehicles to compact SUVs and entry-level vehicles through leasing.

In comparison, many Generation X consumers tend to move upstream by migrating from compact and premium-midsize vehicles to compact SUVs.

The report also shows that many younger Generation buyers, presently aged 20 to 24, rely more heavily on friends and relatives during the shopping process, rather than the Internet and car guides, which many older Generation X consumers use to arm themselves with product and pricing information.

The J.D. Power report also shows that overall, Generation X new-vehicle buyers have a median income of $50,000, are more educated than previous generations and nearly 50 percent are female.

According to the report, 56 percent of female Generation X consumers have a college degree, compared to 48 percent of female Baby Boomers and 40 percent of females of the New Deal generation.

"Female Generation X buyers are becoming an increasingly important audience for manufacturers to target," Hilton said. "Knowing what they look for in a vehicle is very important."

"According to respondents of the study, female Generation X consumers place higher emphasis on vehicle price, quality and durability, while males pay more attention to performance and brand."

Stepping up to the plate

Gurnee Boys Baseball keeps its 30-year tradition alive through community involvement and sponsorship

By JACLYN GRAHAM
Staff Intern

On the American Legion No. 771 baseball fields in Gurnee, a group of dedicated volunteers and participants that make up Gurnee Boys Baseball remind Lake County of what America's favorite past time really is.

As the scent of freshly popped popcorn wafts past your nose on your way toward one of the six main baseball diamonds and you hear murmurs of cheers and encouraging phrases, you realize that the players and fans alike within this league are the hard-core lovers of baseball.

"What's amazing is that the whole program is run strictly by volunteers," said Sally Duckworth, co fund-raising chair on the board with her husband Charles. For more than thirty years, volunteers have run the Gurnee Boys Baseball program.

"Even the children go out and help clean up so we can make the fields look nice for tournament weekends," said Duckworth. "Everybody really joins in and helps out."

"The president, Mark Peavey, is always out there—he's either mowing, emptying the garbage, or meeting us to help us out," said Duckworth. "His commitment to the program is overwhelming. He's so dedicated to this."

The board positions, as well as coaching and volunteering in miscellaneous places, can be extremely time consuming and stressful. But the result is a tightly knit, wonderfully supported baseball program for 664 children of all ages, 6 through 18. There are 32 teams this year within t-ball, shetland, pinto, mustang, bronco, and pony leagues, as well as traveling teams and a tournament team.

"The program gives the children more self confidence," said

Colleen White, whose 8-year-old son Jeffery plays on the Cubs. "And they learn how to play correctly."

Along with the many coaches, board members and parents that make this program possible, sponsors are another key ingredient in this growing organization. "The sponsorship took off this year. It really makes a difference to all of the children and to the program," said Karen Morrison, popstand supervisor for the second year.

"The community really came together. That's what's so neat about this," said Duckworth. "And it's going to grow, too. This really was a huge, huge success." There were 17 new sponsors this year.

"Sponsorship is a great thing and it helps the in-house kids with uniforms," said Crutchfield. "It saves a little bit of money out of the parent's pockets plus it gives the business a little advertising."

Each team sponsor has the name of its business on the children's uniform shirt, as well as its name in the program book with the team. Other perks of sponsorship are the signs on the outside fence off of Rt. 21 that passers-by can see.

"The children like knowing that the community is behind Gurnee Boys Baseball," said Duckworth. Sponsors have been more than kind and supportive in their efforts to aid the organization this year. Aside from their already generous com-

Program changing its name

Since the program allows for girls to play but has been called Gurnee Boys Baseball, the league is changing its name to "Gurnee Youth Baseball." The new name should increase the number of girls who participate, alleviating fears of being on teams with only boys.

Coaches and participants alike are looking forward to the name switch. "Hey, it's kids; why shouldn't the girls be able to play too? They're all out here to have fun and learn," said Steve Crutchfield, head coach of the bronco league's Colorado Rockies sponsored by Outback Steakhouse.

Accordingly, Anne Strychalski, the only girl on the pinto league Cubs sponsored by the Bank of Waukegan, is "just happy to play baseball and to be out there," said her Uncle Paul Elloian. A teammate's mother and fan of Anne's said, "I love watching Anne play. She can hit better than most of the boys."

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

A friend's comments upset you early in the week, Aries. While you're not apt to say anything, don't let this drop. This person really hurt your feelings, and you need to tell him or her about it. If you don't, the comments aren't going to stop. A loved one offers you romantic advice. Listen to what he or she is saying.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Don't be stubborn when it comes to a financial matter this week. You have to make an important decision. To do so, you need to get all of the facts — even if that means asking for advice from someone whom you don't like. This person really is the best one to talk to in this situation.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

You have a long week ahead of you, Gemini. Even though you work diligently, it seems that you're not able to make any progress. Don't get discouraged. Just work to your fullest potential, and do what you can. That's all anyone asks of you. The person whom you've been seeing has a surprise for you. Enjoy!

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Try not to be paranoid this week. Even though it may seem as if people stop talking when you walk into a room, that is not the case. Don't psych yourself out; everything is fine. A close friend asks for your advice about a romantic problem. Be honest with him or her.

Leo - July 23/August 23

You finally get to take a long-awaited trip this week, Leo. Enjoy yourself, and splurge a little. You deserve it. Don't be afraid to let your hair down either! A loved one asks for your help with a family problem. Do what you can to make things better. Scorpio plays a key role.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Don't make any quick decisions when it comes to your personal life early in the week. You have a hectic schedule, and you're preoccupied with your "to do" list. Now definitely is not the time to make any important choices. Wait until you have the time to look at all of the pros and cons first.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

You can't stick your head in the sand when it comes to a family problem this week, Libra, even though you may want to. You have to get involved and help everyone come to an agreement.

While it will be difficult, you're up to the challenge. Your efforts will impress your loved ones.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

You have a profitable week ahead of you, Scorpio. You make a great deal of progress at work on Monday and Tuesday, which leads to a significant bonus. However, don't slack off for the rest of the week. There's still a lot to be done. That special someone needs a favor from you. Do what you can for him or her.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

You have an important business matter to take care of this week, Sagittarius. Stay focused on the task at hand; don't let co-workers distract you. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify the relationship. Say yes, because you know that this is what you want too.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Stand your ground when it comes to a disagreement with a close friend late in the week. You know that you are right, so just explain your position. However, don't be nasty. Harsh words won't get you anywhere. A business associate wants to get to know you better. Think about what you want before responding to his or her advances.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

You have a lot to do this week, Aquarius. Don't beat around the bush. If you stay focused, you'll accomplish everything. Those involved will be impressed with your efforts. A loved one introduces you to an interesting person. Don't leave without getting his or her phone number.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

While you want to help an acquaintance with a problem, think before you act. Will this person appreciate your efforts, or will he or she blame you for all that has gone wrong? Let the answer be your guide.

STEPPING: Community backs baseball league mitments as team sponsors and with donations, some businesses have gone even further beyond the call of duty.

For instance, as a new team sponsor, Sports Authority opened their store to Gurnee Boys Baseball players and their families to shop with a ten percent discount on all original and sale merchandise on May 1 from 8 to 9:30 a.m. This was a great success and much appreciated by all members of the baseball organization.

Likewise, Outback Steakhouse held what the baseball program called "The Outback Payback," scheduled for before the games on opening day. Although the rain date, June 7, was used due to severe weather, the event was still a roaring success. "I was just thrilled to death at the turnout," said Morrison.

"It was so much bigger than we thought it would be; they sold out in an hour and 20 minutes. I was flabbergasted because I thought maybe 100 people would come," said Duckworth. Actually, 200 to 250 people attended.

A full crew from Outback came to the fields with a rental truck full of cooking equipment, hamburgers, and chicken and they cooked and served for everyone. The Gurnee Boys Baseball league provided chips and pop, and $5 was charged for a sandwich, chips and a drink. All of the proceeds went toward the baseball organization. "Outback didn't take a penny," said Duckworth.

From Outback, they made $1,450, while the whole event brought in more than $1,700. "Outback has been superb for everything they've done for us," said Morrison. "They were so happy to be helping our program." Next year, Outback is planning on holding a luncheon to benefit the organization.

Another major contributor has been Pepsi. The local bottler supplied every team in the league with a Pepsi cooler and supplied the coaches with coupons for free Pepsi and ice for the duration of the season. The players can drink Pepsi after every game due to the company's generosity.

Also, In-Laws restaurant donated a golf cart that "doubled the amount we make for concessions," said Morrison. "We deliver bleacher-side." They take drinks and snacks to the fans "because no one wants to leave the game they're watching to get food," said Duckworth. Last year the popstand earned $6,200 as a fundraiser for the baseball program.

The souvenir program book, new this season, was also funded by donations. Manufacturer Dade Behring underwrote the full cost of the book, while the Laser Expressions graphics firm assembled it for free. "Everyone likes the souvenir programs this year, they look great," said Morrison. "Next year we're trying to get pictures in it."

"This is the first year that we've ever really pressed fundraising, because there are some capital improvements that we need to make," said Andy Skilling, head coach of the Bronco travelers and field maintenance supervisor on the board. "We want better fencing, dugouts, more maintenance equipment, a garage and a maintenance shed."

As far as improvements, many fencing repairs were made for this season and field storage boxes were placed by all of the diamonds. Also, electric service was added near the pitcher's mound on the pinto field for the new pitching machine. Yearly, Burris Equipment and McClure's Garage keep the program operating by maintaining the field equipment, a service that is crucial and much appreciated by everyone.

A great accomplishment this season was the addition of scoreboard sponsors. Four new scoreboards will soon go up on the main diamond as well as fields 3, 4 and 5, sponsored by Six Flags Great America, Outback Steakhouse, Dominos pizza, Gurnee Mills, Harris Bank and Brogan's Awards and Sports-wear.

"It's fabulous when you've got places like Six Flags and all of these great businesses and restaurants across the street," said Paul Moss, Bronco Traveler's assistant coach and secretary of the board.

Sandler hits a soft spot in the new comedy 'Big Daddy'

Suntan lotion is good for me. You protect me, tee-hee-hee. If you don't recognize these lines from Billy Madison, then maybe you don't think of Adam Sandler the same way I do. The man is hilarious. Both Billy Madison and Happy Gilmore keep me rolling on the ground with laughter, as do his comedy sketches like "Toll Booth Willie" and "The Goat."

So when Sandler took on the role of a parent in his new comedy Big Daddy, I wondered how he could keep his childish disposition and still win the hearts of a five-year-old boy, his love interest, and most importantly, the audience. A few tears and a couple of sniffls later, I realized that Sandler could be both funny and serious without losing his charm on the big screen.

Sandler plays Sonny Koufax, a 32-year-old law school graduate who works once a week as a toll booth clerk. His overpowering girlfriend Vanessa (Kristy Swanson), gets fed up with Sonny's wasteful and clownish life and leaves him for a man practically older than her father.

Just when he thought things couldn't get worse, Sonny's roommate and law school buddy Kevin (Jon Stewart), proposes to his girlfriend Corinne (Leslie Mann), whose former waitressing position at Hooters during law school becomes a running joke throughout the course of the movie.

Sonny's lazy life is turned around by the surprise delivery of Julian (played by identical twins Cole and Dylan Sprouse), who is dropped off at his door with a letter claiming him to be Kevin's son.

With Kevin out of the country, Sonny makes a deal to keep Julian until a foster family can be found. Before that happens though, Sonny finds himself reliving his own childhood by allowing Julian to do whatever he wants, like call himself Frankenstein or wear goofy outfits like swimming goggles and gold chains.

While in hot pursuit of a busy but beautiful attorney named Layla (Joey Lauren Adams), Sonny continues to fall for cute Julian, who spills milk on his floor and interrupts his hockey games for an annoying 'hopping kangaroo' song. Sonny eventually comes to realize that Julian is more than a tool to help him pick up women in the park. He's a friend.

What becomes of this story is more than normally expected from one of Sandler's comedies. In his own sappy but funny way, Sonny articulates father-and-son relationships, connects with his mean and overbearing father, overcomes his irresponsible lifestyle, and of course, gets the girl.

The end finishes on a conveniently happy note. Julian finds a father and Sonny becomes one. Everyone learned something along the way.

For the mixture of laughter and tears, I give this movie four popcorn boxes out of five.

THEATRE REVIEW

'Winter' touches real-life

Growing old means coming to terms with oneself, but as a central character in Claudia Allen's newest play, "Winter," observes: "How strange it is to outlive yourself."

Julie Harris and Mike Nussbaum play a pair of long-time friends who learn as they edge toward death's door to appreciate the smaller things of life, from a bird's call to a cherished memory.

We first meet Nussbaum, as Mark, a lonely, disgruntled, wheelchair-bound stroke victim with a bladder he can no longer control and a distant wife (Nancy Lollar) with a fetish for busywork. Harris plays Dortha, a woman he unsuccessfully wooed as a youth but someone for whom he still has a soft spot in his heart. Dortha may not be a spry as she once was, but she's ambulatory, healthy and sympathetic.

Things take a turn when Mark's wife is now longer there to fill the role of caretaker. Heartbroken, he is forced to surrender his independence and move into a nursing home. It's quite an adjustment. As time passes, he finds that a fellow resident is his old friend Dortha, defeated by a broken hip and embittered at the change in her circumstances.

Rounding out the cast is Meg Thakken as Ora, Dortha's dutiful daughter.

"Winter" finds the right mix of humor to keep the weightiness of its subject matter from becoming overpowering. And, under Sandy Shinner's fine direction, verisimilitude is preserved.

Ticket information for this poignant 90-minute play, performed at Chicago's Victory Gardens Theater without intermission, is available at (773) 871-3000. "Winter" runs through July 18. — By Tom Witom

My future's so white, I gotta wear shade

It ain't easy being this white. I'm not talking "white" as in being "white" versus "black," or "Caucasian" versus "African American." This is not an essay about race—it's more a "tint" discussion.

What I mean is that even for a white person, I'm pretty darned white.

Of course, "white" is not really an accurate description of most Caucasians. "Beige" or "Flesh-colored" might be closer. Maybe "sand" or "cream" or "tan" or "blush pink." Any and all of those might apply. But very few so-called "white" people are actually white, with the exception of albinos.

But some of us, like me, are darned close. Off-white, I guess you might call us. So let me re-phrase that—it ain't easy being off-white. For example, someone like me has to be careful what she wears. I once wore off-white stretch pants and people thought I was naked.

Another problem with my skin shade is that people can see right through me—literally. You can see every vein in my body. Which would be fine, if I wanted a career modeling the human circulatory system at the local medical school.

LIFE'S A BEAR

Particularly in high school, my skin color (or lack of it) made me the object of a great deal of teasing. Whenever I arrived at the beach, people would shout, "Look out—here comes the white tornado!" Not to mention that my yearbook is full of references about my "whiteness."

Too bad they weren't talking about my teeth.

Along with the mentions of my "whiteness," there is a common thread of advice that runs through the majority of the messages my classmates scribbled to me in that yearbook. Simply stated, it's this:

"FOR CRYIN' OUT LOUD—GET A TAN!"

Apparently, they must have thought I just wasn't trying. They have no idea what I went through trying to look "tan" like all the other white people.

Take my childhood, for instance. Please. If I could describe my summers on the beach in one word, it would be this:

BLISTERS.

I usually acquired one on each shoulder on my first trip to the beach, and then just kept re-inflating them all summer. Back then, "sunscreens" consisted of the following choices:

1. Stay in the shade, or
2. Wear clothes over your bathing suit.

Like most kids, I didn't like those choices. I wanted to be free to enjoy the sunshine, to fly like an eagle. Unfortunately, I usually just fried like an egg.

The closest I've ever come to "tan" was when I turned the color of a Sunkist orange, thanks to those "sunless tanning cremes" people talked me into trying. A bruised Sunkist orange, actually, since it is nearly impossible to put that stuff on evenly.

Not that I am totally without pigment. It's just that it's all in one place—on my nose. I was thrilled when sunscreen became commonplace just so I could avoid being called "brown-noser."

Personally, I blame my pigment problems on my relatives. I have my suspicions that when the Indians first coined the term "Paleface," they were talking about one of my ancestors. Even the smidgen of Italian blood I have is no help—my late grandfather, of northern Italian descent, had red hair, freckles and pale skin. Which is interesting, because now I wonder if maybe Howdy Doody was a relative from Italy.

Doesn't matter, I guess. It's too late to change my gene pool. But I sometimes fantasize about what it would be like if I'd been born in another century, back when women who were extremely fair-skinned and on the "voluptuous" side were considered goddesses.

That's definitely not the case now. These days, health clubs with tanning beds use us as their "before" pictures.

Still, I try not to let it bother me. After so many fruitless years of fighting the sun, not to mention second-degree burns, I have learned to be comfortably pale. I no longer care that I will never be tan or even beige—I'm off-white and I'm proud. Besides, I'm not THAT different. You could even call me a Copper-tone girl. After all, I am the color of her behind.

Questions or comments for humorist Donna Abear can be sent to P.O. Box 391, Antioch, IL 60002.

Prescription for camper homesickness: preparation and patience

This summer, millions of children will get their first taste of independence at a summer resident camp. For many, it also will be their first experience with homesickness. However, parents don't have to feel helpless when homesickness strikes. The prescription for camper homesickness is a simple solution of preparation and patience.

University of California psychologist Chris Thurber studied homesickness in 329 boys between the ages of 8 and 16 at resident camp.

According to his results, homesickness is the norm rather than the exception. A whopping 83 percent of the campers studied reported homesickness on at least one day of camp. Thurber and the American Camping Association suggest the following tips for parents to help their child deal with homesickness at camp.

- Encourage your child's independence throughout the year. Practice separations, like sleepovers at a friend's house, can simulate the camp environment.

- Involve your child in the process of choosing a camp. The more the child owns the decision, the more comfortable the child will feel being at camp.

- Discuss what camp will be like before your child leaves. Consider role-playing anticipated situations, like using a flashlight to find the bathroom.

- Reach an agreement ahead of time on calling each other. If your child's camp has a "no phone calls" policy, honor it.

- Send a note or care package ahead of time to arrive the first day of camp. Acknowledge, in a positive way, that you will miss your child. For example, you can say, "I am going to miss you, but I know that you will have a good time at camp."

- Don't bribe. Linking a successful stay at camp to a material object sends the wrong message. The reward should be your child's newfound confidence and independence.

- Pack a personal item from home, like a stuffed animal.

- When a "rescue call" comes from the child, offer calm reassurance and put the time frame into perspective. Avoid the temptation to take the child home early.

- Talk candidly with the camp director to obtain his or her perspective on your child's adjustment.

- Don't feel guilty about encouraging your child to stay at camp. For many children, camp is a first step toward independence and plays an important role in their growth and development.

The American Camping Association

tion is a national community of camp professionals dedicated to enriching the lives of children and adults through the camp experience. For more information, visit the Web site at www.ACACamps.org or call 1-800-428-CAMP.

Top packing tips for campers

Going to camp requires a lot of preparation. Perhaps one of the biggest stresses of preparing for summer camp is deciding what clothes to bring. The following tips, courtesy of the American Camping Association, will help campers and parents alike pack their bags correctly.

- Keep the packing simple and limited to what you feel the camper absolutely will need.

- Shorts, T-shirts and jeans are staples of a camper's wardrobe, and how many of these items a child will need depends on the length of stay and laundry facilities.

- Use a permanent marker to write your child's name on every item.

- A raincoat or poncho is a must.

- Pack long pants as well as shorts. Campers need leg protection on hikes and during horseback rides.

- New shoes should be broken in and comfortable before leaving for camp.

Tips for a green lawn and a greener wallet

When spring arrives, it's time to get your yard in shape. Everyone wants a lush, green lawn, but beware of the hidden expense of water waste. If you follow a few simple steps for water conservation inside and outside your home, you'll end up with that great-looking yard without the big expense when the water bills come.

Money Down the Drain

Every year, the average American family wastes around 32,000 gallons of water—that's the volume of a medium-sized swimming pool. Most of that waste occurs in the bathroom, sometimes because we leave the water running without thinking (do we really need to let it run the whole time while we're brushing our teeth?). Other times, the water and money is draining away without us even knowing it.

The chief culprits are:

- running toilets
- inefficient fixtures
- leaking plumbing
- excessive lawn-watering

Hosin' Around the Yard

It takes 660 gallons to water a typical 1,000 square-foot lawn with 1 inch of water—the same amount of water you use inside your house in a week. It's easy to cut this in half and save money by remembering these basics:

- Use the right equipment. While most sprinklers do a pretty good job, there is a difference in hose nozzles. When you're washing the car or spraying your garden, a pistol-type nozzle is best because you can adjust the flow rate or stop it completely to answer the phone or chat with a neighbor.
- Set a schedule. Your lawn doesn't need dousing every day. Watering every other day is fine, especially if you do it in the early morning or evening when the sun won't evaporate the water before it can soak in.

- Maximize water usage. If you have a smaller lawn and more plants, you should use irrigation hoses. These target smaller amounts of water right at the root level of your garden. Mulching around trees and shrubs also will maximize your water usage by reducing the amount of water lost through evaporation. Additionally, "recycling" rainwater from roof downspouts for watering your garden will help you cut back.

Go With the Flow

Indoors, you can start saving water immediately by tackling one of the biggest water-wasters first—your toilet. If your old one has had it, buy a new low-flow model. These toilets use about 1.5 gallons per flush, as opposed to the standard version that sinks 4 gallons per use. Otherwise, try these methods for conserving water and saving money in the bathroom:

- Install a toilet dam to reduce the holding capacity of your tank and use less water per flush. No need for a plumber or fancy contraption from the hardware store. Just use an old 1/2-gallon plastic soda bottle. Fill it with water and drop it in the tank, but be sure to leave at least 3 gallons of water, or you might be plunging until next spring.
- Leaks and drips from your toilet add up. A running toilet can waste up to 100 gallons a day, and jiggling the handle only is a short-term fix. Get the right replacement parts (usually just a new flange) and do the job in less than 10 minutes.
- Some leaks from the tank to the bowl are slower and quieter. Here's a tip on how to check for slow leaks: squeeze a couple drops of food coloring into the tank, then wait. If color appears in the bowl, you're sitting on a problem.

- Just like it's a good idea to inspect your car's belts and hoses, you occasionally should check all the plumbing connections. If you don't have plumbing tools, large-jawed VISE-GRIP® locking pliers let you get around all the various-sized pipes and couplings, and will make freeing frozen or rusted bolts easier. Be sure to check basins, sinks and all pipe connections in the basement.

Water Down the Drain:

A Waste of Energy

Hot water accounts for almost 20 percent of energy lost in the home, and about half of that is from shower use. Most showers run at around 5 gallons per minute, which is twice as much water (and energy) as you could be using. Check your flow rate by running the shower into a measurable bucket for 30 seconds and doubling the measurement. Any good plumbing-fixture store will carry 2.5-gallon shower heads to cut the flow and save you money.

Don't forget your faucets, either. Installing faucet aerators effectively halves the volume of water but adds bubbles so that the flow appears the same. And, if you run the dishwasher or clothes washer without a full load, it's like pouring money and water down the drain.

Making plans and taking precautions to save water around the home and yard this spring may seem like a headache, but it won't hurt nearly so much as a big water bill at the end of summer.

Tree-identification guide book available from the National Arbor Day Foundation

"What Tree Is That?," a pocket guide for identifying trees, is available from The National Arbor Day Foundation.

The 72-page guide will help you identify 135 different trees found in the eastern and central U.S.

Well-known trees are included: oaks, maples, spruces, and pines. Also species such as horsechestnut and mockernut hickory, sassafras and shadbush, persimmon and pawpaw and pagodatree and pecan.

Dozens of drawings illustrate the trees' leaves or needles and their acorns, berries, seed pods, cones, and other identifying features.

"What Tree Is That?" is organized to make it easy to identify trees in a simple step-by-step fashion.

"Helping people enjoy and appreciate trees is central to the educational mission of the Arbor Day Foundation," John Rosenow, the Foundation's president, said. "Being able to identify trees is important to knowing how to care for them and how to plant the right tree in the right place."

To obtain your tree ID guide, send your name and address and $3 to "What Tree Is That?," The National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, NE 68410.

Project unveils road system alternatives

Proposed extension of Route 53 one of options being considered

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

The Lake County Transportation Improvement Project unveiled a comprehensive package of roadway improvement alternatives, including the possible extension of Route 53 as a tollway or freeway and the addition of more lanes to I-94.

The package of alternatives was presented this week to the media and during a special Technical Advisory Group meeting held at College of Lake County in Grayslake.

Dave Lutyens, director of the Lake County Transportation Improvement Project, said proposed improvements to the county's road network, as well as rail and bus enhancements, are designed to address the rapid growth projected in the county.

Lutyens said projections show an estimated 250,000 people moving to Lake County by the year 2020, raising the population to about 750,000. As a result, unless significant transportation improvements are made, the number of congested roads in the

Legislators voice differing views on University Center

Some support Lakehurst; others fear process becoming a 'political football'

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Although the Illinois State Board of Higher Education will have the final say on where a proposed University Center of Lake County will be built, some area legislators are making their views known about what they feel is the best site.

Several Lake County state legislators, including State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Deerfield), Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) and Sen. Terry

Link (D-Vernon Hills) have indicated they believe the Lakehurst Shopping Center in Waukegan is the best site for the University Center.

Geo-Karis and Waukegan Alderman Ray Vukovich met to discuss the issue with Illinois Gov. George Ryan in Chicago. The purpose of the meeting was to show the governor they support the Lakehurst site for the University Center and to urge the state board to strongly consider it.

County plans leaf burning meetings

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Lake County officials have scheduled three public meetings on a controversial ordinance to ban leaf burning in unincorporated areas of the county.

The first of the three meetings was held June 30 at the Fremont Township Offices in Mundelein.

Upcoming meetings will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. July 28 at 26177 W. Grass Lake Road, Antioch, and Aug. 4 at the Grant Township Hall, 411 Washington St., Ingleside, from 7 to 9 p.m.

County Board member Diana O'Kelly (R-Mundelein) said she was unhappy the county did not provide adequate notice of the first meeting so it could be publicized in the weekly edition of the Mundelein News.

The County Administrator's Office sent out a notice of the meetings after 5 p.m. June 23, which was after the newspaper's publishing deadline to notify the public of the Mundelein meeting.

"I'm really upset because I don't think my constituents were given fair notification of this meeting," O'Kelly said. "It really wasn't well thought out."

County Board member Judy Martini (R-Antioch) agrees there should be more notice given prior to the Mundelein meeting.

"It's just unfortunate the residents of Fremont Township are not going to get due process. I thought all along these were going to be public hearings," said Martini, indicating that she thought they would be subject to specific hearing notice requirements.

County Administrator Karl Nollenberger emphasized the leaf burning sessions are not public hearings, but informational meetings of the County Board's Health and Human Service Committee where public in-packet to the governor about the Lakehurst site and also sent a package to Lt. Gov. Corrine Wood. "I do feel the most logical place for the Lake County Multi-University Center is in Lakehurst in Waukegan, and not at the College of Lake County, which has gridlock traffic galore and which would need new buildings at a greater cost to the taxpayers," Geo-Karis said in an earlier letter to the governor.

Lakehurst, the CLC site at the Grayslake campus and a downtown Mundelein site are the three locations being considered for the University Center. The State Board of Higher Education is expected to choose a site in August.

Garrett said while she can support any of the sites on the list, she believes Lakehurst is the best location.

"My preference is clearly Lakehurst. I think it's centrally located. I like its accessibility to Routes 41, 43 and the tollway and it seems closer to some of the major corporations that will be sending students to the University Center," she said.

While some legislators have openly made their opinions known, others expressed concern that political pressure is being influenced on the process.

"I think it doesn't help the site selection committee and the State Board of Higher Education when all this is going on," said State Sen. Bill Peterson (R-Prairie View).

Peterson said Lake County legislators met this spring to discuss the University Center project. He said at the time legislators agreed they would not take a position on where the University Center would be located and would let the state's site selection committee do its job.

"I don't think it serves the people of Lake County well," he said of all the speculation surrounding where the University Center should be located. "It smells like a political deal is being put together."

State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Wauconda) said he made his views known to the State Board of Higher Education about which site he preferred for the University Center, but does not feel it is appropriate to comment publicly on the matter.

"I don't want to make this a public battle or competition," said Beaubien. "This is really about education and the future of our children. It should not be a political football."

"It's not a decision for me to make; it's up to the higher board," he added.

Geo-Karis said county legislators did agree in April not to talk about site preferences until after the state funding was secured for the project. However, now that the General Assembly has restored funding, Geo-Karis said legislators have a right to express their opinions on what site they feel is best for Lake County. "We kept our word," she said.

Gash agrees. "Personally I think the state Board of Higher Education should make the final decision. It's not our job to make a decision, but it's certainly a legislator's job to voice an opinion on issues affecting their area," she said.

State Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) said while there has been a great deal of discussion about the siting of the University Center, his main concern is how the county will fund its portion of the project.

While the state has already earmarked $11 million for the University Center construction, the county still has to come up with the other half of the project's cost.

"There's been a lot of talk about locations, but not a lot of talk about funding alternatives," he said.

While there is still disagreement among legislators on specific aspects of the project, all of the legislators do agree on one thing: the University Center will benefit Lake County.

During a legislative breakfast with county officials at the Gurnee Holiday Inn, Lake County's coalition of legislators passed a resolution in support of the University Center, wherever it is located.

"I think it's important to recognize that as individual members we may have our own personal views, but jointly we recognize the importance of the University Center project as a regional issue and we support it 100 percent," said State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville).

BURNINGS: Meetings set to seek public input put is being sought.

Nollenberger said the county tried to schedule the meetings at night in unincorporated areas of county where the leaf burning ban would have the most significant impact. The meetings last about two hours.

He said the meetings include a 30-minute presentation by the County Administrator's and Lake County Health Departments on the leaf burning issue. The remaining 90 minutes of the meetings are for public input.

Nollenberger indicated there was some difficulty finding places to hold the meetings. Originally, one of the meetings had been scheduled for June 23 but that had to be rescheduled because it fell on the same day as the Lake County Senior Day activities. He said they tried to choose meeting dates that did not conflict with County Board member's schedules.

"It's been difficult getting them scheduled with the board members' high level of interest in the issue," he said.

The county health department originally proposed the idea of a ban or restrictions on the open burning of leaves and landscape waste throughout the unincorporated areas of the county. Health officials say leaf burning poses a risk to young children with immature lungs, the elderly and people who suffer from chronic pulmonary diseases such as asthma. Leaf burning also damages the environment through the emission of air pollutants and the release of nutrients into surface water, according to health officials.

But certain board members, like O'Kelly and Martini, say an outright ban would place an undue hardship on their constituents.

O'Kelly's district covers many unincorporated areas of Fremont Township with large numbers of mature oak trees. Those trees can produce huge volumes of leaves every year, and without burning, residents would have no way to dispose of their leaves, according to O'Kelly.

"I think we need to give constituents alternatives if we are going to pass this and I can't support it unless we have alternatives," she said.

New election petition thrown out

Round Lake—The Village of Round Lake has prevailed in their on-going dispute with would-be trustees Patrick Smythe and Michael Ross of "A New Voice" over the outcome of the April 13 municipal election.

Smythe and Ross claimed discrepancies with nine ballots from Avon Township Precinct 24, caused them to lose the election by one vote to trustees William Heelan and Helmut Hennig.

On June 23, Lake County Circuit Court Judge Jack Hoogasian threw out Smythe and Ross' petition for a new election on a legal technicality.

In late May, attorneys representing the village moved to dismiss the challenge for a new election stating, among other things, that Smythe and Ross' petition failed to name the canvassing board or any of its members as parties to the proceedings.

Hoogasian sided with the village's argument that because the petition did not name the local caucus board (compromised of the village president, the village clerk, and one trustee), the suit could not go forward.

Fox River resumes boating season

Fox Lake—Boating season resumed on the Fox River Monday morning.

The Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) announced effective June 28, the Fox River between McHenry and the Algonquin Dam is again open to motorized watercraft for boating without high-water restrictions for the first time since June 13.

Boaters are cautioned to be on the look-out for and avoid the unusually large amount of debris caused by the high water levels, which includes logs in excess of 30 feet, pier sections, and floating bogs. The agency has received numerous customer concerns regarding floating debris, and the FWA crews are addressing them as quickly as possible.

Current water levels on the Chain O' Lakes are three to five inches above normal summer pool (NSP), the average summer water level during normal summer conditions. At Johnsbury, it is three to five inches above NSP; and at the Stratton and Algonquin dams, one foot above NSP.

Village holds beauty pageants

Lake Villa—Once the Miss Lake Villa pageant commenced on Monday June 28, the 26 contestants participated in a nearly four-hour long competition. Chloe Schaar was crowned Little Miss Lake Villa, while the runner-up was Octavia Morton. Abbey Spychala was crowned Junior Miss Lake Villa, with Leah Droze as the runner-up. Suzanne Heil was crowned Miss Lake Villa, and Donna Burress is the runner-up.

After winning Little Miss Lake Villa in 1988 at the age of 8, Suzanne Heil, now 19-years-old Miss Lake Villa 1999, was still "in awe and completely shocked" when her name was announced as the new queen. She is looking forward to a year filled with meeting new people and participating in events and activities throughout the community.

Mundelein Police Dept. wins award

Mundelein—The Mundelein Police Department received second place in Senior Development for the annual Governor's Home Town Awards.

The police department received an award for its "Senior Police Academy," a program which invites senior citizens to learn about financial exploitation of seniors, elder abuse, and home repair and telemarketing scams that often target senior citizens.

"This whole thing, the award and process, is very significant for the community," said Police Chief Raymond Rose. "Volunteerism and participation are alive and well in Mundelein. We are able to target certain portions of the community...in a very positive way."

Rose said this is the fifth year in a row that Mundelein has received first or second place in the Home Town Awards program. The village has won a total of seven awards.

Great America employee charged

Gurnee—A former Six Flags Great America employee is being charged with two counts of aggravated sexual abuse after allegedly molesting two young girls on a ride at the amusement park.

Luis Hernandez, 19, of 26352 N. Route 83 in Mundelein, was arrested on June 21 after the parents of a 5-year-old Zion girl notified park security, Gurnee police officials said. Gurnee Police were notified immediately.

The incident occurred at the amusement park on June 19 in the evening while Hernandez was unbuckling the 5-year-old from Yogi Bear's Yahoo River in the Camp Cartoon Network area of the park. Hernandez allegedly improperly touched the child's genitalia while unbuckling her, police said.

A similar incident occurred on June 12 on the same ride involving Hernandez and a 7-year-old Round Lake girl. Gurnee Police were not notified of the June 12 incident.

Hernandez was arrested and transported to Lake County Jail where he posted 10 percent of a $500,000 bond. Police said Hernandez made some admissions on one of the incidents.

The parents of the 5-year-old have filed a lawsuit against the amusement park, alleging negligence and willful and wanton conduct. The lawsuit seeks damages of more than $50,000.

Former superintendent dies

Grayslake—Larry Rouse, a man who worked nearly half his life at Grayslake Community High School, has died. Lawrence (Larry) Harden Rouse, 77, a former school superintendent, died June 25 in his Round Lake home. His wife Phyllis was by his side.

Rouse had fought a 15-year battle against spinal cerebral ataxia, a progressive genetic nervous system disorder that affects nerve endings. He was among the original 16 teachers hired at Grayslake High School when it was founded in 1946, and two years later became superintendent at the age of 26. He retired in 1983.

The funeral will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday, July 1, at the United Protestant Church of Grayslake.

Woman wins on lottery show

Wildwood—Patricia Leonard is among "Illinois' Luckiest." She was among 18 Illinois Lottery winners who appeared on the Illinois Luckiest game show aired June 26.

A $1 investment in a scratch-off lottery ticket turned into a $19,000 windfall, as Leonard walked away with among the highest winnings of the day.

Leonard hopes to use the money for a down payment on a home.

Antioch Police ready for 21st century

Antioch—The Antioch Police Department is working toward being equipped both personnel wise and facility wise to head into the new Millennium. Under construction with an expected completion date of this fall is a new 2-story, 13,000 square foot facility. "Professionalism" is being emphasized in the recruitment of new officers, as well as in the construction of the new facility, according to Police Chief Charlie Watkins.

Cook Library settles with Martin

Libertyville—The week after the Cook Library election, Jack Martin filed a suit seeking relief in the Lake County Circuit Court that asked the court to have the library "preserve, protect and account," for the assets of Cook Library District.

On June 22 the Lake County Circuit Court accepted a settlement between the Cook Library and Martin.

As Martin pointed out in his statement, "The Cook Memorial Library District had not maintained a record of its general fixed assets and accordingly, the amount that should be recorded in the general fixed asset group is unknown."

Martin also states that he knew prior to filing the suit that the library's continued failure to accurately report and account for the fixed assets could have caused the library to pay a premium, a quarter to half a percent additional interest on any bond sale from a successful referendum because of the encumbrance on its annual audit.

With the final settlement, Cook Library has agreed to account for the fixed assets, and for taxpayers that means less payments in future taxes if and when the Library board passes a referendum.

Warfield convicted of sexual abuse

Libertyville—A jury of eight women and four men found ex-Libertyville High School teacher Andrew Warfield guilty of sexual abuse on two counts.

The jury deliberated for approximately three hours and found Warfield guilty on two counts of aggravated criminal sexual abuse. The first count was because Warfield was a teacher and the second count was because the victim was under 17-years-old and Warfield was five years older.

In the June 22 retrial the jury convicted Warfield for the first incident which involved Warfield molesting the 16-year-old girl in a drama department closet at the school. The jury did not find him guilty of the second incident which took place in his car outside a Highland Park restaurant.

Both Defense Attorney Thomas Briscoe and Assistant States Attorney Don Morrison said that the jury was technically not sure if the touching that occurred in Warfield's car was on her sex organs.

Warfield took the stand and claimed that the 16-year-old victim was "looking for sex."

He characterized the relationship as an "emotional relationship, not a physical relationship." He claimed it was an affair of the heart and mind and that he was looking to her for guidance and love, according to Don Morrison.

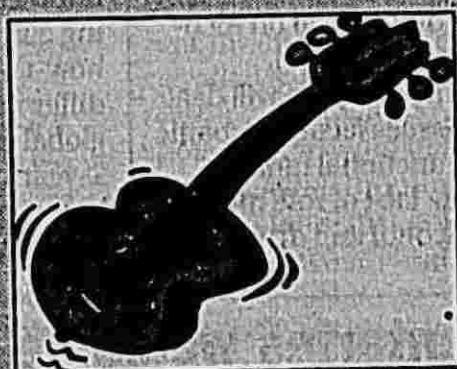

Warfield faces up to three to seven years in prison with probation, having been convicted of a Class 2 felony.

County enjoying political pork diet

Spread the money around. It's a time-honored axiom in politics. Money is the mother's milk of campaigning and vote getting so Gov. George Ryan's $12 billion Illinois FIRST plan is based on sound political principles.

The Ryan program has been characterized by critics as massive income redistribution—"outright socialism" fumed the Illinois Taxpayer Education Foundation. So far, though, we haven't noticed anyone complaining, so-called "fiscally responsible" Republicans and tax-and-spend Democrats alike.

In Lake County, political leaders and civic activists are happily lining up to accept state grants. Warren Township Supervisor Sue Simpson cited the "definite need" for the $400,000 check for a new town center presented by State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville). Officials of Grayslake Park Dist. were positively giddy in accepting $200,000 for soccer and Little League delivered by State Sen. William Peterson (R-Long Grove) and State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Barrington). These scenes have been repeated throughout the county.

There is some truth in accusations that, considering a $1.5 billion state surplus and the healthy economy, the ambitious Ryan Illinois FIRST program is overkill. After all, the surplus is the result of taxes and fees paid by citizens and businesses. Instead of tax relief, taxpayers face new taxes. Philosophic differences notwithstanding, the fact remains there was pent up demand for major infrastructure spending after years of relative inactivity. Call it pork, but the Illinois FIRST dollars are going for roads, schools, mass transit—and yes, new town centers and Little League fields, improvements that you can both see and use.

It's a whole different perspective when citizens can see dollars from the state turn into benefits for their community. Detractors can carp about the "socialistic mentality" of legislators. State Rep. Beaubien captured the feeling of voters when he left the Grayslake ceremony saying, "That made me feel like a million bucks." The check was only $200,000.

United Way makes waves for charity

Observance of the 75th year of service might be the impetus needed by United Way of Lake County to surpass in 1999 the $10.2 million in donations last year, the highest total ever. The annual campaign, underscoring the fact that leaders and dedicated volunteers are on the job 52 weeks a year, will be getting underway in a few short weeks.

United Way workers are unceasing in their activities because needs are ever-present. United Way funded more than 40 social agencies this past year, allocating monies in a distribution process, reconfigured and improved in 1996, designed to monitor results. Donors can be confident that allocations to member agencies are not doled out willy-nilly.

Volunteer leaders and the professional staff pride themselves on a low fundraising cost. The 1998 figure was 12.4 percent.

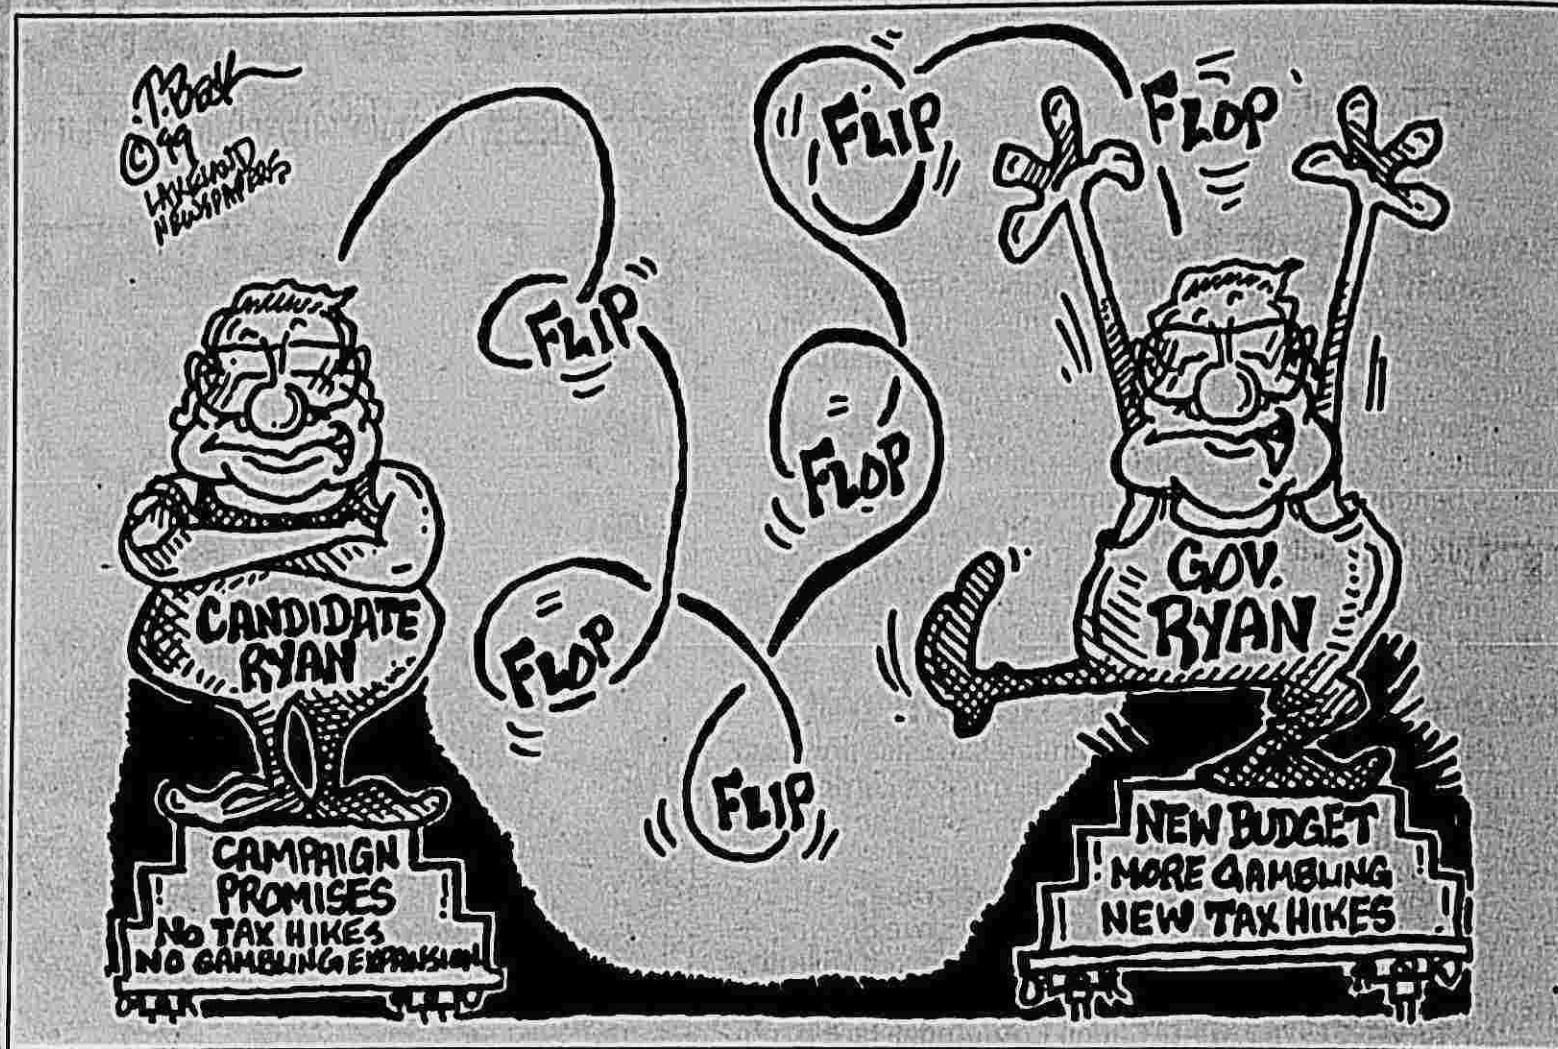

While giving is geared to assist those most in need, services of member agencies cut across all socio-economic lines. As an organization, United Way is committed to identifying human service needs and facilitating solutions. United Way of Lake County truly serves all people.

Eye alternative to counter culture

One of the most fragile civic endeavors is establishing and operating a teen center. Major obstacles are funding and maintaining interest among youth of the community. If either one diminishes, the other wanes. Good intentions alone aren't sufficient to operate an on-going youth activities program.

The Round Lake area is the latest county community to launch a teen center project. With park district support, the project seems to be off to a good start. Organizers now have turned to the business community and civic leaders for continuing financial support. With an ambitious mission, the teen center drive is rallying around a well located 40-acre site containing two houses that will be remodeled for meetings and activities.

Round Lake Beach Police Chief Ed Sindles put forth a blunt challenge to adult leaders. He said the teen center is an alternative to gangs, drugs and violence. Chief Sindles admonition might have made more than a few Lake County communities turn uneasy. The Round Lake area is to be commended for organizing a viable alternative to a youth culture that is undermining society.

VIEWPOINT

Waukegan Harbor continues to cling to center stage

There was a time when corn, cows and coal were kings in Lake County. Corn fed the cows producing milk that was the underpinning of a healthy farm economy. Coal fueled heavy shoreline industry and electricity generators that created a modern industrial center on the shore of Lake Michigan.

Heavy black smoke belched forth from factory stacks and lake boats that crowded into Waukegan harbor in the early 1900's. Hefty paychecks and the allure of city life magnets force-feeding the county seat as the center of commerce and government in Lake County.

With photos and post cards, Jerry Larsen described a lively lifestyle a century ago that drew on water-born transportation for its life's blood. Men, women and children came from county outreaches to swim and boat in the burgeoning harbor where freight boats delivered coal and hauled goods produced in Waukegan factories.

Larsen, 63, the third generation of a lakefront family that traces its origin to 1898, sketched a harbor in 1904 frequented by steamers bringing Chicagoans for picnics and beach fun. The 32-foot launch "Little Fort" ferried happy families to and fro along the shoreline.

Nick Larsen, Jerry's grandfather, rented swimming suits and provided changing rooms to out-of-town visitors and Lake County farm families seeking relief in Lake Michigan waters from summer heat. The Larsens also had rowboats for rent.

Lake County developed a commercial fishing fleet docked at the Waukegan lakefront of more than two dozen boats that brought in catches of chub, perch and prize lake trout. During World War II, trout catches often reached 3,000 pounds a day and brought top dollar from leading restaurants from the stateline to Chicago.

The elder Larsen, and later his son Milt, were fixtures on the lakefront, first catering to beachgoers and fishermen, and later to the boating public when power yachts came into vogue. Larsen family photo albums record visits in 1914-

15 of the famed S.S. Pere Marquette car ferry. In 1910 the gleaming white USS Nashville, a navy gun boat was tied up in Waukegan harbor during a courtesy tour of the Great Lakes.

The south breakwater, completed in the early 1900s, provided a spectacular vantage point to view the Chicago skyline on a clear day.

Well into the 1960s, coal and cement boats competed with pleasure boaters for harbor space in Waukegan. When industry crowded out swimmers, lake activity turned to sailing yachts and cruisers. The popular Larsen Boat House and later Larsen Marine Service became focal points.

Factories have long since been silenced. The importance of coal is but a memory. Now sailors and powerboaters from as far away as Madison and the western suburbs compete for slip space offering modern amenities like electric power and running water.

Lake Michigan and the Waukegan harbor continue to play a big part in the life of Lake County.

Latino program

After one and a half years of development, a new program, Latinos Unidos Venceremos (LUV) is ready to be launched in August, according to Wallace Brandies of NICASA (Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism & Substance Abuse). Brandies said the program will deal with multiple issues facing Hispanic youth like dysfunctional families, low self-esteem, lack of role models, attraction of alcohol and drugs, and school problems. Funding came from a $22,500 grant from the state.

Sheridan beckons

There's no lack of interest for living in a former Army barracks or a one-time military compound. More than 200 of the 551 homes planned at the Town of Fort Sheridan development have been sold. First residents already have moved into family units ranging in price from $259,900 to more than $2 million. The lure of a Fort Sheridan residence is the first lakefront community in more than a century.

Watch liquor pricing

Don't be afraid to holler bloody murder if the price of your favorite adult beverage has skyrocketed. Blame it on the retailer and the distributor who are gouging the public in connection with the new state liquor tax effective July 1.

Your reporter's fax produced evidence that the tax rate is minimal. Here's the "good word" straight from Revenue Director Glen Bower:

1 cent on a bottle of beer.
10 cents on a 750 ml bottle of table wine.

50 cents on a fifth of hard liquor. The July 1 increase will be the first in 30 years. The tax is assessed on a per-gallon basis and does not differ from brand to brand or between import and domestic beverages. Bower added comforting words. If you pay more than this, the money is going to the liquor industry, according to the revenue chief, not to build roads, bridges and schools as lawmakers intended. Oh yeah?

One man's family

Tiny terrorists all over the world have a new weapon, pop discovered at granddaughter Nikki's birthday party. It's a plastic replica lawnmower that shoots water, oozes bubbles and makes a teeth-chattering clacking noise. Comes with how-to-assemble directions in 10 different languages. Definitely a global instrument of destruction for 2-year-olds. Great for outdoor fun, but what happens when the tots bring this infernal machine indoors?

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

LaBelle stresses school funding reality

Talk about being on the hot seat.

Edward Moore of Lincolnshire is being lobbied heavily by Democrats and Republicans alike on site selection for the Lake County multi-versity center.

Moore sits on the Illinois Board of High Education (IBHE) which makes the final call on where the school will be located. Political insiders says the IBHE has been biased toward the College of Lake County site at Route 45 and Brae Loch Road from the start. Moore won't respond to this opinion.

County Board chairman Jim LaBelle (R-Zion) leaves no doubt about his preference. It's Lakehurst all the way. In LaBelle's opinion, Lakehurst meshes with economic development concepts benefiting the whole county. LaBelle points out economic considerations can't be ignored because of the matching fund requirements, a cool $11.5 million Lake leaders have to find.

Moore, owner of a metal fabricating business in Arlington Heights is not regarded as a Lake County partisan. But that doesn't mean he's not involved in educational politics in Springfield.

Honorary degree

Honorary degrees are continuing to pile up for Congressman John Porter (R-Dist. 10). Porter's alma mater, Northwestern, conferred an Honorary Doctor of Laws degree on the long-time North Shore lawmaker. Porter's first degree from NU was bachelor's in business administration granted in 1957. His other honorary degrees are from Barat College, Kendall College and Tufts University.

Party picnic

Republicans aim to recreate political history when picnics and a rally atmosphere were prime social events. The annual GOP family picnic Sunday, Aug. 22, at Lakewood Forest Preserve, Route 176, Wauconda, will be a direct link to the past. An entire family can enjoy food and fun for $20 from 1 to 4 p.m.

More of Moore

No novice to government and politics, Betty Ann Moore is expected to make an immediate contribution as a newly appointed trustee of Libertyville Township. Moore became entrenched in county politics as a long-time aide to the late State Sen. Grace Mary Stern (D-Highland Park). Moore was frequently mentioned as good prospect for public office while serving as a right hand to the legendary Democratic political leader.

Pappas pushing

A hot boundary dispute is shaping up between Fox Lake and the burgeoning Village of Volo. Unincorporated Wooster Lake is viewed as a prize by Fox Lake Mayor Jim Pappas, who aims to secure a southern boundary before Volo can gobble up more territory. The pushing and shoving is reminiscent of the "border wars" involving Libertyville, Mundelein and Vernon Hills a decade ago.

Golf anyone?

Lake County Republican countywide officials, Circuit Court Clerk Sally Coffelt, State's Attorney Michael Waller and Coroner Barbara Richardson, are expecting a record number of golfers for the 1999 Lake County Republican Golf Outing.

The Lake County Republican Golf Outing will be held on Wednesday, July 7 at the Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth. There will be two shotgun starts—7:30 a.m. and 1 p.m., and two golf formats, scramble and general. A cocktail reception will start at 6 p.m., with dinner at 7 p.m. The program, which includes prizes and addresses by elected officials, starts at 8 p.m.

"The Republican Golf Outing is the event of the year for Lake County Republicans and I look forward to this fun event," said Coffelt.

To schedule tee times and make dinner reservations, contact Republican Headquarters at 680-6680.

Yes, it scatters, but family matters

Just for a few minutes, if I may, I'd like to borrow publisher Bill Schroeder's longtime down-home column theme, "One Man's Family."

My daughter Ann and son-in-law Mike came over from Rockford on Father's Day for our annual family golf outing and party.

It seemed to me there was something unusual about Mike, he looked different for some reason. I shrugged it off and we proceeded to golf.

About an hour and several golf holes later, another family member commented on the fact Mike had shaved off his mustache, something that had been a part of his face and personality for more than 20 years.

Bingo! That was it! No mustache!

I'm sure a woman would have noticed that immediately, but being a man I'll bet I could have gone the entire round of golf, and the get-together afterwards, without noticing what was different about Mike.

I surmise that most men don't look at other men the way women look at people. I may have noticed if something had been different about Mike's excellent golf swing, but certainly not something about his face.

It reminded my wife Janice of some happenings a decade or two ago when I was still doing the daily newspaper grind.

Once gained 30 pounds. No one among the dozens of people who worked with me seemed to notice or commented on the fact.

Then I cut down on the Twinkies and lost the 30 pounds, a major victory, but again nobody noticed or cared.

And once, for a lark, I grew a mustache. Nobody noticed.

The mustache tickled, so I shaved it off. Nobody noticed.

Being ignored like that might

THE PFARR CORNER

suggest to a person that the world out there isn't taking him very seriously, that he isn't exactly the center of attention.

I could have come to work in a tuxedo, or dressed like Abe Lincoln or Bozo the Clown, and probably no one would have noticed. (Except the boss, maybe.)

Also on Father's Day, my daughter Mary, now living in Racine, related this story: One night her husband Mick began talking in his sleep. Actually, he was multiplying: "Two times nine is 18, four times seven is 28..."

The next morning they went off to their separate jobs and later Mary phoned him.

"Mick," she said, "last night you were multiplying in your sleep!"

"Oh really?" he said. "Were there two of me when I woke up?"

Also up in Wisconsin, my nephew Reid is one of those fervent Green Bay Packer fans. He named his son Brett Pfarr (pronounced "far") in honor of quarterback Brett Favre (pronounced "farv").

Little Brett, now 4, was playing in a park and met a 9-year-old who asked, "What's your name, kid?"

"Brett Pfarr," said Brett. "Yeah, sure," snapped the 9-year-old, "and I'm frigging Joe Montana."

Brett went back to his mother and informed her, "Guess what, Mom: I just met this boy and his name is frigging Joe Montana."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Personal attacks often lead to lack of candidates

I have made it a practice not to indulge in petty rock throwing contests, but seeing as a man I don't even know, except by reputation, has seen fit to publicly call me a liar and a coward, in his Letter to the Editor entitled "A Lame Excuse," (Lakeland Newspapers, June 11) I feel compelled to reply.

Mr. Geary, first I say to you, I am honored and humbled to be compared to Senator Adeline Geo Karis. "Geo" has done more for Lake County in her tenure of service that almost anyone else I can think of. I wasn't in Springfield when the Senator voted, but I have not known Senator Geo Karis to lie in the past. Such an assumption on your part is wrong.

I did miss the Lake County Forest Preserve Board meeting that Geary refers to. The reason was personal, private, and unchangeable. His accusations that I was trying to dodge my responsibilities as a board member are false and inaccurate. I made a public vow when I was elected to the Lake County Board, that I would vote on issues based on what I considered to be in the best interest of my constituents and my personal conscience, whether that position was politically popular or not. I feel my voting record proves I lived up to that vow. I sincerely believe that even today, if asked, the majority of my fellow board members, no matter what political party, would confirm my opinion.

I have heard rumors and insinuations concerning Geary's political tenure, but because I don't have personal knowledge of his actions or the reasons for them, I don't feel it's in anyone's best interest to indulge in his game. I simply remind Geary that "people who live in glass houses, should not throw stones."

At almost every political function I have attended it has been noted that it is becoming increasingly more difficult to find qualified citizens to run for public office. I responded to Geary's attack for that reason only. Taking cheap personal shots at our candidates or former candidates, is truly uncalled for. I sincerely hope that our future politicians are not discouraged by such uncalled for actions. I feel proud to have served Lake County in the past, and will continue to serve Lake County in the future.

In closing I would like to quote my personal hero, Abraham Lincoln,

"I do the very best I know how, the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, 10 angels swearing I was right would make no difference."

University should be east of O'Plaine

I can't think of one good reason why any village west of O'Plaine Road would want the new Lake County University.

It would bring a multitude of problems and few benefits. One of the reasons we should promote it in Waukegan, it may start a new movement to recycling our land. We cannot continue to abandon the old and build new.

It is a fool's dream to think there is no end to our natural resources.

*R.T. 'Mike' Graham

University is good for county on any site

There has been a great deal of media attention on the selection process for the University Center of Lake County. While the County Board has not been involved, I am particularly concerned with the tone that the public debate is taking on this issue and the potential impact on the future of the project.

I think we need to remember that the University Center was a concept that the Illinois Board of Higher Education brought to us. The County Board enthusiastically supported the concept for Lake County, and appreciated what the Board of Higher Education was proposing to do.

While it was expected that there would be competition among sites, there is some hostility entering into it that is not healthy for the success of the project. In fact, if we don't stay focused on the overriding objective of establishing a successful University Center in Lake County, we could find that the State will not move this project forward.

It is certainly everyone's right to support their favorite site. I would just urge everyone to not let that interfere with the overall success of this project. We need to work with our educational partners in the Board of Higher Education and others who have been working hard on our behalf. I want to emphasize that no matter what site is ultimately selected, I will support it and do what I can personally to ensure its successful completion. I encourage, and would expect, that the entire County Board would do the same.

*Jim LaBelle,
Lake County Board Chairman*

Drink responsibility

The Fourth of July weekend is a great time to get together with family and friends and celebrate America's birthday. But when it comes to drinking, Independence Day does not mean independence from responsibility.

Millions of adults enjoy a cold beer at family barbecues. It is part of the July 4th tradition. Rinella Beverage Company and Anheuser-Busch encourage adults who choose to drink to also choose a designated driver for the ride home.

We all want this holiday weekend to be a fun and safe one, and part of good times means remembering to "know when to say when."

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

It still pays to advertise

I built a better mousetrap. It was so very fine, I knew everyone would want one, and the market would be mine. My trap was eco-friendly, and had benefits galore. So I watched with baited breath, for the world to find my door. But alas, no path was beaten. The buyers never came. They knew not of my mousetrap, and they did not know my name. They knew not of its quality, its benefits or price. They didn't know I'd guarantee to rid their house of mice. If you don't wish to sit alone, in your field of dreams, I'd recommend some action, for to me, here's how it seems: If you want to sell a mousetrap, you must tell the world about it. You must advertise and merchandise, and from the rooftops shout it. I'd display it in the paper, I'd send out lots of mail. I'd show a list of benefits to help me make the sale. I'd flash it on my web site. I'd use radio and more, I'd talk about it everywhere, and watch my profits soar. Don't expect the world to find you, that's what I would advise. If you want to sell your mousetraps, it still pays to advertise.

It doesn't matter whether you're selling a new mousetrap or last year's widget, promotion still pays. Someone once defined advertising as "truth well told." I like and agree with that definition.

Advertising should be accurate, believable and creative. It should target the audience and point out real benefits to them. Here are some tips to help you increase your advertising effectiveness.

Try these techniques

- Make it "news they can use." Your ads must be interesting to potential customers. People read, watch and listen to news that interests them. A good ad will make your target customer say, "Hmm, that's interesting."
- Always make a strong offer. Effective ads appeal to the reader's self-interest and state your offer in a compelling manner. Strong offers may include: innovative problem solving, clear, understandable benefits, better than usual value and a reward for responding now.
- Reinforce your market position in every ad. Your market position is formed from the advantages and benefits you offer customers they can't get from anyone else. If you can't clearly identify your position, stop right now. Get a clean sheet of paper and write down all the benefits and advantages you offer customers that no one else can match. Use these to strengthen your offer.
- Sell the end result. Folks don't buy refrigerators; they buy cold milk and safe food storage. Your ads should tell the customer what they get. Every customer wants to know, "What's in it for me?" Show them how you'll solve their problems, make them look better and make them feel more secure.
- Make your headlines work. Headlines in print ads should draw the reader in, state your offer, give the reader interesting news, promise a benefit, appeal to the reader's self-interest or some combination of these elements.
- Deliver the goods in your copy. Good copy builds on the headline and adds information that your customers need to make good decisions. Remember, your customers are looking for results. So help

Hair stylist features Gold Coast flair

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

The customary barber shop where men go for a trim and a shave is becoming a thing of the past. At least that's the way Asis Palma, owner of Asis Flair with Hair in Fox Lake, sees it.

He maintains more men, especially men of college age, are visiting his full service hair salon for highlights, waves and permanents than ever before.

A hair stylist for 37 years, Palma, 54, keeps up with fashion trends.

"Old styles are coming back in fashion," he said. "The French twist is particularly popular for proms and weddings."

The Fox Lake resident, who is originally from Nicaragua, knew since he was a child that he wanted to be a hair stylist.

"When I was a kid, my parents took me to a beauty shop where they did permanents using wires that came down from the ceiling and clamped onto your hair," he said. "It took two to three hours. I thought to myself, there's got to be a better way to do this."

When Palma turned 17, he became an apprentice at a Gold Coast salon in Chicago. Within six months he became a licensed hair dresser. He criss-crossed the country, working as a stylist first in Miami Beach, then in Las Vegas and finally back in Chicago, where he operated his own salon for 10 years.

He moved to Fox Lake when his wife became pregnant and he wanted a safe place to live.

"My brother who lives in Wisconsin recommended Fox Lake," he said.

He bought the former Betty Folger beauty shop and opened Asis Flair with Hair, at 68 E. Grand Avenue, in 1994. Today, five hair stylists and two nail technicians serve approximately 400 customers. They provide the complete services of a hair salon: styling, coloring, perms, make up and make-over artistry and a full range of nail technologies and waxing.

Palma considers his salon to be a complete family business where a father can go for hair styling, a son can go for a haircut, and a mother can go for a complete make-over. Forty percent of his clients are men.

In the five years since he started the business, Palma has extensively upgraded his facilities. He refurbished the "work" area to offer 10 work stations for more personalized services. He installed new lighting to fully illuminate work areas and added new flooring and overhead fans.

A great advantage to being located in Fox Lake instead of Chicago is that there are plenty of free parking spaces for customers at the back of the building.

In addition to hair styling, Palma's salon offers a wide variety of retail products, such as cosmetics, moisturizers and skin aging preventives under Palma's own "Asis" label, and assorted hair care products primarily under the Nexus label.

He said that hair products have vastly improved over the years.

"Hair coloring is much easier on the hair today," he said. "And, it's easier to be lighter faster. There are shampoos that make color and perms last longer and there are products that make hair grow back."

Asis enjoys giving full make-overs. "That means color, hair style and make up, which I do all myself," he said. "It can cost up to $150."

But what he likes most is the expressions on people's faces when he is finished with them. "We make people look better," he said.

Lakeland Newspapers adds two to editorial management team

Two experienced journalists have joined Lakeland Newspapers to take editorial management posts, it was announced by Executive Editor Neal Tucker.

They are Robert Warde, veteran Wisconsin newsmen as news editor and John Phelps, long-time suburban prep writer as sports editor.

Tucker said Warde will be responsible for supervising local news coverage for Lakeland's expanding circulation area. Phelps will be in charge of increasing in-depth reporting of Lake County sports.

"Bob Warde brings a wealth of experience from suburban Milwaukee, an area that's similar to Lake County," said Tucker.

The executive editor said Phelps has broad-based knowledge of Lake County sports. "He knows coaches and athletic directors. John also knows that our readers appreciate a high level of professionalism in prep coverage," Tucker noted.

Warde has worked in community journalism for more than 14 years. He began writing for a weekly newspaper on Milwaukee's south side after graduating high school. He attended the University of Wisconsin Milwaukee, studying journalism and mass communication.

He spent almost three years with CNI Newspapers, a chain of weekly newspapers serving Milwaukee's suburbs, as a group editor. He most recently served as managing editor of The Daily Reporter, a court and commercial newspaper serving Milwaukee's legal and construction commu-

Phelps started with Lakeland Newspapers as a sports reporter this past March. Prior to coming to Lakeland, he was with the Chicago Tribune working for "Preps Plus" for eight years, serving as a freelance sports writer for four years as well as an editorial assistant for four years.

Barat awarded for excellence

A Lake County institution of higher learning is the recipient of a prestigious building award.

Barat College of Lake Forest was selected as winner of the 1999 New Construction—Suburbs Merit Award in Competition conducted by the Chicago Builder Congress.

Expanded library space to accommodate information technology and collections growth was a necessity at Barat College. The new library provides the college with a prominent gateway building, set in a new campus quadrangle and linked to landscape walkways curving across a wooded ravine to newly consolidated parking areas.

Other awarded categories included New Construction-Chicago, Rehabilitative Construction and Construction Under $10 Million. Winners, in order, were Brookfield Zoo exhibit, Brooks Homes low income housing, and Elmhurst Art Museum.

Each building will include either three, four or five townhomes ranging in size from 1,438 to 2,447 square feet. The residences have two or three bedrooms and two 1/2 baths. Base prices range from $309,900 to $485,000.

Sun's ultraviolet light can damage eyes

Most people know that exposure to the sun, especially at the height of summer, can damage their skin. But few people realize the serious toll the sun can take on their eyes. Extended exposure to the sun's ultraviolet (UV) rays is one of the risk factors associated with eye disorders such as cataracts.

"Without a doubt, the sun poses one of the biggest dangers to the eyes," said Robert A. Davis, O.D., F.A.A.O. "Overexposure to the sun's ultraviolet rays can be painful — like a 'sunburn of the eye' — but it can also be more serious. A number of studies have shown that the effects of UV radiation are cumulative and may increase your chance of developing cataracts. It is crucial that people protect their eyes from the sun."

Ultraviolet rays and the eye

Ultraviolet light is the component of sunlight most responsible for eye damage. Ultraviolet light rays come in three main types — A, B and C — categorized according to their wavelengths. UV-C is the shortest and potentially the most dangerous wavelength, but it is largely absorbed by the Earth's atmosphere and therefore is less of a threat than UV-A or UV-B. UV-A, a longer wavelength, usually induces skin tanning and browning and is responsible for premature skin aging. UV-B, a shorter wavelength, causes sunburns and is most often associated with skin cancer.

Excessive exposure to UV light, especially from light reflected off sand, snow, or pavement, can produce a burn on the surface of the eye. Like a sunburn on the skin, eye surface burns are painful but usually temporary. Long-term exposure of the eye to UV light affects not only its surface (cornea and conjunctiva), but also its internal structures (lens and retina). UV exposure is a risk factor in the development of cataracts, or clouding of the lens. Cataracts are one of the leading causes of reduced vision in the United States.

The American Academy of Ophthalmology, the world's largest association of eye physicians and surgeons, recommends protecting their eyes from harmful UV rays. Sunglasses with UV blocking lenses can help shield eyes from UV rays in sunlight. However, even most sunglasses that offer UV protection block only about 50% of UV radiation.

— because sunlight also enters the eye from above and around the sunglasses.

Wearing a broad brimmed hat with sunglasses can further reduce exposure to UV rays, as can wearing UV blocking contact lenses in conjunction with sunglasses.

Children's Hospital warns parents of fireworks danger

Children's Hospital of Wisconsin safety experts urge parents to ensure a safe Fourth of July for their children.

The best way for families to enjoy the holiday festivities is to attend planned park firework displays where parents and children can safely watch the colorful show from a distance.

Children are fascinated by fireworks, but fascination can quickly turn into tragedy if a child loses an eye or a finger or is severely burned by exploding fireworks.

"The Fourth of July is a time for fun and celebration," Sue Sorge, RN, Trauma and Injury Prevention manager at Children's Hospital said. "Injury to even one child playing with fireworks is too many."

Because children often do not know the dangers involved, parents and other adults should not allow children to use fireworks, including sparklers.

Sorge recommends parents discuss the dangers of fireworks with their children. Youngsters should be told never to purchase fireworks or accept them from friends and to stay away from those who are using fireworks.

"Every year, children and adults are needlessly injured by fireworks," Sorge said. "Eyes and fingers often are lost in these explosions. Burns and other injuries are common. As adults, we can stop these injuries by keeping fireworks out of the hands of children."

Students move from classroom to clerkship

Students took center stage June 21, as over 150 Chicago Medical School sophomores participated in a ceremony signifying their transition from classroom to clinical training. The University's first "From Classroom to Clerkships" ceremony highlighted this significant point in a medical student's education as they leave for basic sciences to begin their clerkships. In addition to being recognized for completing the first phase of their curriculum, students were reminded of the importance of maintaining a humanistic approach to medicine as they enter the healthcare arena.

Students across the country fulfill the same stringent curriculum requirements as Chicago Medical School students: two years of basic science studies, a national board examination, two years of onsite clinical training, and a second national board exam. It is during their last two years of training, however, that students encounter the most rigorous part of their education as they rotate through a series of clerkships at various teaching hospitals. Students work around the clock shadowing practicing physicians and reinforcing the knowledge and skills learned in the classroom.

For Chicago Medical School students, this means the opportunity of training at some of Chicago's top hospitals through Finch University of Health Sciences/ The Chicago Medical School's many affiliations. Some of these teaching sites include Cook County Hospital, Henry Ford Health System, Illinois Masonic Medical Center, Lutheran General Hospital, Mount Sinai Hospital

The University has graduated over 6,000 physicians, 1,735 of whom currently practice in Illinois.

My child is not learning. What can I do?

Dr. Singer,

We have a daughter who is 10 years old. She has had almost constant problems with school. Through the years we have had her extensively tested by Doctors and Psychologists, tutored consistently and still the problems exist. We have recently taken her to have her sight and hearing checked just to be sure that she is okay in those two areas. We are so tired of watching her struggle and having tutor after tutor after tutor tell us that they will do the trick, only to have the same thing afterwards. Our daughter's main problem seems to be in the acquisition of information. She seems to stall out after being presented with something. This also happens with verbal directions outside of school. We used to think it was selective. In other words, we used to think that she would hear only what she wanted to hear. Well, after years of this and after finding out that her sight and hearing and IQ are fine with no notable problems, and that she is not having seizures and not having any notable neurological problems, we are really feeling at our wits end. Do you have any tidbits of information that might offer us some other options? Thank you. M.Z.

Hi M.Z.,

First, I'm sorry you have gone through so much and I'm thrilled that you have gone through so much. I know that sounds nuts, but it sounds like you cherish this little girl and are willing to do so much for her and that is terrific, but it sounds like you are having such a hard time. Second, although it sounds like you have had a hard road with this, please try not to get too down on the tutors. Tutors are usually wonderful people who really want to be "the thing that really does it this time."

In my experience, most of the time, it isn't a problem with the tutor, but rather a problem with targeting the treatment. I'll explain in a moment.

You need to understand that I really cannot give you direct advice about your little girl since this is not a personal, one-on-one consult, but I can tell you about a lot of other kids I have seen and compare it to what you are dealing with. I'm sure that at this point, the last thing you want, is to meet with another Psychologist, but, if you want the personal touch on this, I would highly suggest that we talk in person, at some point.

As I said, most of the time I have seen this happen, the child is not adequately absorbing the tutoring or any other schoolwork and the like, because the child has a problem with absorbing things in his or her world in general. The child may have cognitive processing problems, or the inability to interpret, organize, focus on and remember material presented to him or her. It usually takes the form of the child having difficulty with handling multiple levels of sensory skills, or multi-tasking. For example, the inability to maintain visual and auditory information while writing.

These kids have a hard time absorbing things that need to be absorbed through multiple senses. Since most things in a classroom, and in life in general, are usually presented in a multi-sensory way, these kids get stuck an awful lot. They get blitzed by all that is coming at them. Cognitive skills are learned skills and, therefore, can be trained. This problem with cognitive skills usually effects tutoring in a very bad way. You see, if there are cognitive processing problems occurring, the child suffering from this problem will not be completely absorbing the material taught by the tutor, teacher or parent. Some or all of the material doesn't get in. I also find that these kids develop almost a panic reaction to feeling the loss of information.

They know when it's happening and they shut down. These processing skills need to be trained so that the child doesn't get stuck. I call it, "Deer in the headlights syndrome." Basically, the child feels inundated by too much information and begins to lose parts or all of what is coming at them. They basically get lost. So, what can begin to happen is that tutoring then takes on the task of constantly having to be an aid for the child. While having help every so often is not a terrible thing, if it is required all the time, a dependency can get formed over time and eventually the child may always expect to have someone there to organize things for him or her.

Please see SINGER / C10

SINGER: Child not learning

My problem with this, is that later education usually requires the ability to work on one's own. It requires an independence of learning skills. Training cognitive skills, or teaching kids to do this on their own, trains that independence to happen. It allows the child to use his or her own brain to organize material as opposed to having to have help all the time. It also trains kids to feel confident in the ability to handle more of the material presented to them. After training, their absorption of the material, when it is presented, is faster and more efficient so that studying that material later becomes less burdensome and less scary.

Now, not all kids have this problem. If a child's problem has been academic in nature, or needing a little bit more academic instruction in a certain area, and they are taking it in and doing well with it, more than likely, that child is not a candidate for processing training. However, a child who has had constant tutoring and testing without significant results, and is not getting it or improving at all, is more than likely a good candidate for processing training. Whether your child is that child can only be determined by a screening. Don't get fooled by normal IQ either. Many kids with level, normal IQ's can be also dealing with specific processing skill deficits.

If you do want to do a screening for this to see if it is the right thing for your child, you will need to call me again at the same number you reached me at last time (listed below.) Tutors do really have the best at heart for your child and other kids too.

Provena Saint Therese Laboratory Services earns accreditation

Provena Saint Therese Medical Center has been granted accreditation by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB), according to Elaine Pape, director of laboratory service at the hospital.

Accreditation follows an intensive on-site assessment by specially training representative of the AABB and establishes that the level of medical, technical and administrative performance within the facility meets or exceeds the standards set by the AABB. By successfully meeting those requirements, Provena Saint Therese joins more than 2,000 similar facilities across the nation and abroad that have earned AABB accreditation.

AABB accreditation is voluntary. The AABB is a professional society and has been engaged in the accreditation of blood banks and transfusion services since 1958. AABB member facilities are responsible for collecting virtually all of the nation's blood supply and for transfusing more than 80 percent of the blood used for patient care in the United States.

Provena Saint Therese Medical Center is part of Provena Health, an integrated health care delivery network formed by the merger of Franciscan Sisters Health Care Corporation, ServantCor and Mercy Center for Health Care Services. Provena Health includes seven hospitals, 13 long-term/residential facilities, and more than 40 clinics in Illinois and Indiana.

ROAD: Extension of Route 53 controversial proposal county will nearly double over that period, he said.

"Our proposed improvement options are really a reaction to what's already happening," said Lutyens. "We're not trying to spur anything, we're reacting to the traffic congestion problems that already exist and will continue to get worse."

Among the proposed roadway alternatives being considered are:

- Extending Route 53 as either a freeway, tollway or six-lane arterial from roughly the Cook County line to Grayslake. The proposed extension would be roughly 27 miles.

- Adding two more lanes to I-94, expanding the tollway from six to eight lanes.

- Expanding Route 12 from four to six lanes. Also the addition of more lanes to Route 83 and U.S. 45.

- Upgrading Route 120, by building either additional lanes or relocating the roadway to the south and making it a six-lane arterial.

Larry Martin of Hill and Knowlton, the public relations consulting firm for the project, gave a presentation of eight different roadway options being considered by the project.

"The primary issue in Lake County is traffic congestion that exists now and congestion that's projected to occur by the year 2020. Based on our analysis and input from the public, people are not satisfied with the level of transportation service in the county and having transportation improvements are a priority," he said.

Ultimately, Martin said the list of options will be narrowed to three and a final report of the alternatives will be unveiled in the summer of 2000. The study's final report also will address transit and bus improvements.

In the meantime, Martin said there will be an opportunity for public input on the alternatives. A public meeting will be scheduled in August, although the exact date and site has not yet been chosen.

The Lake County Transportation Improvement Project is a joint effort between Illinois Department of Transportation and the Illinois State Toll Authority. For more information about the project, persons may visit the project's web site at www.lakecountypia.com or contact the office in Mundelein at 847-438-3442.

Sheriff's Department arrests 5 in under-age drinking sting operation

Lake County Sheriff Gary DelRe announced the arrest of five store workers in an attempt to prevent the illegal sales of alcohol to minors by establishments licensed to make liquor sales in Lake County.

On June 25, between the hours of 7 p.m. and 11 p.m. and in a joint effort with the Illinois State Police, Sheriff Del Re directed members of the Lake County Sheriff's Office Criminal Investigations Division (CID) to investigate 13 randomly selected establishments located variously in unincorporated areas of North East and South East Lake County.

All of the establishments are licensed to sell alcoholic beverages. With the assistance of local minors acting under close supervision of investigating detectives, purchases were made successfully at five of the establishments.

Attendants at four of the establishments and the owner of one were responsible for the illegal sales and all were charged with one count each of the violation of Illinois Statutes. The law in question prohibits the sale of alcohol to minors and results in a Class A criminal misdemeanor charge.

Sheriff Del Re said that the operation resulted in a 38 percent rate of sale to minors. This figure represents an overall improvement in the rate of compliance by establishments licensed to sell liquor.

"I am encouraged by this figure and it appears that our on-going strategy of regular and unannounced 'spot checks' at the various establishments has had a positive effect in our effort to curb the sale of liquor to minors in Lake County."

In continuing his comments, Sheriff Del Re said that "the sale of alcohol to minors and its consumption often leads to the increased risk of minors to become involved in criminal activity. In addition, the consumption of alcohol by minors (persons under 21 years of age) has led to serious traffic related collisions and Driving Under the Influence (DUI) charges."

Statistics pertaining to the use of alcohol by minors driving motor vehicles indicated that in 1998, 54 drivers under age 21 were charged with DUI. Of these 54 drivers, 11 or 20 percent had been involved in a motor vehicle collision involving property damage, personal injury or a combination of both.

The establishments and persons responsible for the sales at each are identified as:

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,
While finishing my last year of college, I applied with several international corporations. I did receive a fair amount of responses offering me an opportunity to come and interview with these corporations, however none seemed to be in locations that interested me until now. I recently heard from a major international firm that has been one of my focal points in an area of the country that I desire. They contacted me and have set up an interview for the third week of July in which they are paying for all expenses for 3 days of interviews. I received a confirmation of my airline and hotel and a note stating that the VP will be meeting me at the airport and transporting me to my destination when I arrive. I am not concerned with the interviewing process. What I am concerned about is having to drive in the car with the VP for an hour in order to get to our destination. I am most nervous about making some intelligent conversation and not sounding like a kid fresh out of school. I am hoping that you can offer some suggestions? Thanks! T.H. - Libertyville

Dear T.H.,
Easy. Let nature take its course. Meeting people for the first time and finding conversation, in order to not feel awkward, can be intimidating to some. My guess is that the VP will recognize this as a possibility and get the conversation going. I always advise people that if they find themselves at a loss for conversation, you always ask questions such as, "Have you always lived in _____?" or "How long have you been with _____ Corporation?" You forgot to mention what part of the country you will be flying to, but if it is a place such as New York, you may say something like, "I had forgotten how beautiful the skyline is," or if it is out west, "I had forgotten how incredible the mountains are." Don't worry about the conversation. It will flow. Chances are it is just as much an awkward moment for the person picking you up. Relax. You'll do fine.

Dear Search,
I have run in to a stroke of bad luck and am without a job and a telephone. I have asked my friend if I could put her telephone number down on my resume so that I have a place to be contacted and get messages. Is this okay to do, or will employers look at this as being irresponsible? V.W. - Waukegan

Dear V.W.,
My guess is that it would only be considered "irresponsible" if you didn't get your messages and didn't return the calls as a result!

Play Better Golf with JACK NICKLAUS

CUT THE CORNER OF THIS DOGLEG FROM THE TEE AND YOU'RE LEFT WITH ONLY A WEDGE TO THE GREEN. ALSO, EVEN IF YOU MISS THE SHOT A LITTLE THERE'S STILL A GOOD CHANCE OF RECOVERING FOR A PAR.

TRY TO CUT THIS CORNER AND YOU'RE TAKING A RISKY GAMBLE.

LENGTH, HEIGHT AND ACCURACY ARE NEEDED TO CLEAR THE CORNER AND THE PENALTY FOR MISSING THE SHOT COULD BE VERY SEVERE. HERE FOR A SURE PAR.
